REMAINS OF PLANE IN CORNFIELD—This framework is all that remained after a light plane crashed and burned in a cornfield near Redan Road in DeKalb County Sunday. E. E. Rakestraw, 23, of Route 3, Decatur, and James Tanner, 16, of Lawrenceville Road, were killed while Rakestraw's father-in-law looked on.

2 Youths Killed as Plane Crashes, Burns in DeKalb County Cornfield

Two youths died when a small plane crashed and burned at 11:30 a. m. Sunday in a DeKalb County cornfield before the eyes of the father-inlaw of one of the victims.

E. E. Ethridge, living on Mountain View Road near Redan Rd., told County Policemen the small plane had circled his house twice before the crash so low he was able to recognize his son-in-law, Eldridge E. Rakestraw, 23, of Route 3, Decatur.

Ethridge said Rakestraw waved at him and a friend, I. H. Couch, 936 Hall Pl., N. W. Shortly afterward the plane nose-dived into Ethridge's cornfield, catching fire before either Couch or Ethridge could reach the craft. No reason for the crash has been advanced.

E. J. Ethridge, brother-in-law of Rakestraw, said the plane was about 100 feet from the ground when it apparently stalled. It burst into flames immediately on striking the ground, he said. It came down 50 yards from the house.

Killed with Rakestraw was James J. Tanner, 16, of Lawrenceville Road, Decatur.

Acetylene torches were required to get the bodies out of the wreckage. Both were burned beyond recognition. Rakestraw's relatives said the plane blazed fo rabout 15 minutes, while they threw dirt on the flames.

E. J. Ethridge said Rakestraw had been flying for about three years and had held a commercial license for a year.

County Policemen T. T. Wright and W. T. Holland reported the plane belonged to R. J. Wylie and George W. Crane and had been chartered by the youths from the Lakewood Airport about half an hour before the fatal crash.

Bodies were taken to the A. S. Turner Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements for Tanner will be announced by Turner.

Funeral services for Rakestraw will be conducted at 3 p. m. today in the Mountain View Baptist Church, with the Rev. Roscoe Allred officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Gary and Roland Rakestraw; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Rakestraw, of Hiram; three sisters, Mrs. Jesse Raper, Mrs. Willard Rackley and Miss Annie Rakestraw, all of Decatur, and four brothers, J. C., G. C., B. C. and C. B. Rakestraw, all of Hiram.

The Tanner boy is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tanner, of Decatur; two brothers, Francis S. Tanner, of Decatur, and R. W. Tanner, of Stone Mountain, and five sisters, Mrs. C. G. Childress, Mrs. F. W. Cline, Mrs. O. H. McCord and Mrs. L. R. Plunkett, all of Atlanta, and Mrs Luther Dollar, Jr., of Decatur.

Nurse, 73, Is Beaten, Violated in Her Room

Violation of a 73-year-old nurse by a man who entered her Richardson St., S. W. room early Sunday morning lengthened a long list of sex crimes in the Atlanta area.

Severely beaten by her assailant before the criminal attack, the elderly nurse was reported in a serious condition at Piedmont Hospital.

She told police she was alone in her home. She awakened about midnight and read for two or three hours. As she turned out her light to go back to sleep, she said, the man came through her bedroom window, beat her almost unconscious, then assaulted her.

After the man left, walking calmly through the door, the nurse related, she lost consciousness.

She regained consciousness about 6 a. m., staggered into the front yard and screamed for help, awakening neighbors. A Grady ambulance gave first aid and she was taken to Piedmont. Attending physicians said she was suffering from multiple bruises on the face, head and body.

Dets. W. M. Holland and J. E. Helms, assigned to investigate the assault on the Richardson Street woman, expressed the opinion she was attacked by a man who has recently burglarized a number of homes in that area.

"We have evidence which leads us to believe the assailant of the nurse is the same man who has terrorized other women in that same area recently," Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said.

Refusing to reveal the nature of the evidence in possession of police, Chief Jenkins pointed out that dozens of police investigators had been over the grounds surrounding the Richardson Street residence since the attack was reported.

Police photographers have also visited the scene, and a number of photographs was made, which Chief Jenkins said may later prove valuable in event of an arrest.

She was the second elderly woman subjected to attack in this area. Last week a Cobb County grandmother was set upon as she picked berries in a field with two grandchildren. A Negro youth was arrested and brought to Fulton Tower for safekeeping when a mob formed.

Police records show many sex offenses beginning with the sex slaying of Mrs. Margaret Refoule at her picturesque Howell Mill home in May. No arrest has been made.

On June 25, Mrs. Jeanette Reyman, of Bogart, was ravished and beaten to death while in Atlanta on a shopping trip. A cab driver, Glenn Robinson, is under indictment in that case.

Saturday, an Emory student was arrested and turned over to Fulton County officers for investigation in the reported criminal assault on an 18-year-old girl taken for a ride in an automobile. Police reported the girl, viewing a number of men in a lineup Saturday, picked out the student, identified as W. G. Lamb, 27, of a Collier Road address, as the man who attacked her after driving her to a lonely spot in South Fulton County. She said he enticed her into his automobile under pretense of getting her to show him the way to an address. A card he is said to have passed out and which was found in a pocket, gave the name of Holland, police said.

The Richardson Street attack Sunday was the third home assault reported to police since July 13. A Virginia woman, visiting her mother, was assaulted as she slept beside her mother in the latter's Montreat Avenue, S. W., residence.

Walter Swindle, 24, of Jasper, Ala., has been arrested in connection with this case. City Detectives R. G. Ellington and W. C. Pack

British-Red Trade Talks Stalled, Moscow Says

LONDON, July 27—(AP)—The Moscow Radio said Sunday night British-Soviet trade negotiations in Moscow had broken off because Great Britain could not guarantee the delivery of certain heavy goods and because the negotiators could not agree on credit terms.

The broadcast, heard here by the Soviet monitor under difficult radio listening conditions, indicated the heavy goods in question were rails and pipe.

The radio denied reports that the price of grain, which the British sought from Russia, was the cause of the trade conference breakdown, declaring that the British and Russian negotiators agreed on a price for grain which was less than Britain now pays to Argentina or Canada for grain.

Greeks Beat Off Attack On Florina

ATHENS, July 27—(UP)—Greek Government troops, aircraft and armed civilians killed, wounded or captured 100 guerrillas and beat off another attempt to seize Florina in a series of sharp battles from the Yugoslav frontier to far Southern Greece, newspaper dispatches reported Sunday.

A large force of guerrillas driving down from Mt. Grammos and the heights near the Yugoslav border attacked four villages, drove toward the main Salonika Highway and turned north against Florina, the reports said.

Bands of civilians armed by the Government and Army troops guarding the Florina-Salonika Highway repulsed the guerrilla force when it turned to attack Florina, the reports said, killing 15 Leftists and wounding 20. One soldier was killed and four wounded.

Two Jewish Vessels Steam Toward Holy Land

HAIFA, Palestine, July 27—(AP)—Two immigrant ships reportedly carrying 1,100 uncertified Jews steamed toward the Holy Land under the shadow of British warships Sunday night and those aboard the vessels faced immediate deportation to detention camps in Cyprus.

The Hebrew Resistance Movement, Haganah, announced that the immigrant ship, "Return to Zion," carrying about 400 visaless Jews, was approaching the coast along with a second vessel bearing the name, "Those Who Fell at Ez Zib." The latter ship was reported to be carrying some 700 immigrants.

Ship-to-Shore Phone Helps End Strike

NEW YORK, July 27—(AP)—Negotiating final phases by ship-to-shore telephone, CIO representatives and Remington Rand officials reached accord Sunday on an agreement to end the five-week strike of electrical workers at eight of the Company's plants.

The agreement, which will be submitted to the 9,000 members of the local Unions involved in the violence-punctuated work stoppage, called for an across-the-board wage increase of eight cents an hour, plus six paid holidays annually.

Meeting here in almost continuous sessions since Friday, negotiators for the Company and Union announced agreement on the proposed new contract late Sunday after Remington Rand Pres. James H. Rand had given his approval, via ship-to-shore telephone, to final phases of the pact while cruising in his yacht on Long Island Sound.

Five Picnickers Injured as Bolt Strikes Tree

CINCINNATI, July 27—(AP)—Five persons were injured early Sunday night when lightning struck a large tree and sent it crashing through the roof of an open-sided dance pavilion at Gutweiler's Picnic Grove in a remote western section of Hamilton County. No deaths were reported.

Walter Julien, dispatcher for Hamilton County Police, said none of the injured appeared to be in serious condition. They were taken to city hospitals.

More than 100 persons, attending an American Legion picnic, had gathered in the pavilion to escape a thunderstorm, Julien said.

Do-Nothing Session, Say Democrats

WASHINGTON, July 27—(UP) The first session of the 80th Congress slipped noisily into history Sunday, but what it did—or didn't do—lives on as major vote-getting weapons for Republicans and Democrats alike in the 1948 presidential campaign.

After nearly seven months of wrangling over domestic and foreign issues, the first GOP-controlled Congress in 16 years adjourned in the small hours of Sunday morning—the House at 12:33 a. m. (EDT), and the Senate at 3:49 a. m. (EDT)—until next Jan. 2.

Republican leaders fixed things so that they, as well as President Truman, could call a special session this Fall, if necessary. But all agreed that this would not be done unless the international situation became critical.

Congress began a five-months' vacation with Republicans proudly hailing its accomplishments and Democrats beating the political tom-toms against its shortcomings. Leaders of both parties were eager to try to sell their versions of the record to the voters next year.

Republicans were confident they had won votes by carrying out two of their top campaign promises of 1946—sweeping curbs on labor unions imposed by the Taft-Hartley Law, and economies in Government. Two Presidential vetoes kept them from fulfilling their number one pledge to cut income taxes.

Republican chieftains disagreed on the likelihood of making another tax reduction effort next year.

Chairman Harold Knutson, Republican, Minnesota, of the tax-drafting House Ways and Means Committee, issued a farewell statement declaring that "we will have to take the issue to the people and in November, 1948, let them vote on whether or not they want tax reduction."

"I may say," he added, "that we have no present plans for bringing in a third tax reduction bill while Mr. Truman remains in the White House, as we believe it would be a useless gesture."

But Chairman Taft, Republican, Ohio, of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, told reporters as he packed his bags:

"There will be a tax bill of some kind next year, but we won't give much thought to the kind before December."

Democrats claimed it was a "do-nothing" session. They ridiculed the GOP economy effort, calling it "phony." They described adjournment as a "legislative funeral," and they prepared to carry to the nation's crossroads a charge that the Republicans had aligned themselves with the rich against the poor.

After 175 days of work—about average for a peacetime Congress—the House quit in a friendly atmosphere amid much slapping of backs and singing of songs. But the Senate, already on edge from an all-night row on Thurs-

MONEY FOR STREPTOMYCIN

Aid Begins Pouring In For Ailing Baby Larry

Help for Baby Larry Harris in his fight against death began pouring in Sunday.

Money to pay for streptomycin treatments for 60 days was given to Grady Hospital for Larry by the Atlanta Aerie 714, Fraternal Order of Eagles. More money will be ready when that is gone, the Eagles said.

Members of the Eastland Heights Baptist Church plan to send an undisclosed sum of money to Mrs. Edwina Harris, of Red Oak, mother of 17-month-old Larry, to purchase costly streptomycin needed daily in his treatment.

Larry is suffering from deadly tuberculosis meningitis. A story in The Constitution Sunday told how his mother had exhausted her funds buying the costly streptomycin, which is the only hope for his life. She had managed to obtain money for a few days more of treatment.

The story moved the Eagles to call a special board meeting Sunday and authorize the gift for Larry's treatment.

Mrs. I. J. Otwell, Secretary to the Eastland Church Treasurer, said the donation followed a plea made by Rev. O. H. Spratlin Sunday.

Grady Hospital authorities described the child's condition as fair Sunday, adding the child still was receiving streptomycin injections every three hours to stave off what has been considered a 100 percent fatal disease.

Mrs. Harris last week received $96 just in time to continue purchase of the $4.80-a-gram dose which has been administered to the child daily since his admission to Grady June 11.

Dr. Stacy Burnette, of Grady, said treatments must be continued for the next six months.

Navy Medics, Passing, Save Crash Victims

SAVANNAH, July 27—(UP)—A group of Navy hospital corpsmen pitched in with the speed, skill and improvisation they learned under fire Sunday when their bus came upon the scene of a bloody traffic accident 21 miles west of Savannah.

A car carrying six Negroes had collided head-on with another carrying three white men three minutes before the sailors arrived. One Negro had been killed instantly. All of the other eight persons suffered agonizing injuries and had been thrown out of the broken machines onto the pavement where a hard rain was falling.

The 15 sailors had only a first-aid kit. But they set up a field hospital in an abandoned sawmill beside the road. They made splints from scraps o' boards found in the mill. They ripped off their jumpers for bandages and slings.

"I never saw anything like it for speed, even in the war," said Carroll Burke, a Savannah photographer who witnessed the rescue operations. Burke gave the sailors his own shirt for bandage.

As soon as the victims were trussed up in splints, the sailors carried them into the sawmill to await ambulances from Savannah.

Leroy Austin, a Negro, was killed. Three of the other Negroes suffered broken legs and another's hand was severed. Two of the white men, Joe Tucker and Clarence Stafford, were critically hurt.

The Navy men, under command of an Ensign Ullman, were being transferred from the Dublin, Ga., Naval Hospital to the Parris Island, S. C., Marine Base.

Marshall Plans for Peace Battle

WASHINGTON, July 27—(UP) Secretary of State Marshall is quietly deploying some of his youngest and most able career diplomats to key trouble spots in preparation for the diplomatic battle for peace with the Soviet Union, authoritative sources disclosed Sunday night.

Without fanfare, Marshall has been eliminating deadwood and inefficiency in the diplomatic service abroad. Political plum appointments have been held to the lowest level in history, and assignments given to men who have made a career of diplomacy to the world's most important listening posts.

By the end of the Summer the United States will have in the Balkans, Central Europe and Sweden the strongest diplomatic representation in history. The Middle East area has been strengthened, and major changes in China and France appear to be in the near future.

Matshall, it was said, has approached the problem with his old army tactics of seeking the most able "field commanders" available to him to be his eyes and ears in the strategic areas which ring the Soviet Union.

He is sending a top flight team to Sweden—normally a quiet spot but now one of the best listening posts on Russia. H. Freeman Matthews, who has been in charge of all Europe in the State Department, will be minister. His chief assistants will be Hugh Cumming, chief of the Northern European Division for four years, and Andreas G. Ronhovde, Swedish expert.

Marshall also is strengthening representation in Berlin where the United States and Russia sit directly across the East-West "divide." James Riddleberger, top department expert on Germany, and Theodore Achilles, Western European expert, will join Ambassador Robert Murphy's staff this Fall.

In the Balkans, Cavendish Cannon, leading U. S. expert on the area, heads the group as Ambassador to Yugoslavia. Young Selden Chapin has just arrived in Hungary and Rudolf Schoenfeld is going to Romania, leaving only Bulgaria without a high-ranking American.

Switzerland is getting a top-flight man—John Carter Vincent, former Georgia Representative from the Sixth District, who has devoted most of his life to Far Eastern affairs but is considered one of the most astute observers and reporters in the diplomatic corps.

Russia Needs Ships To 'Defend' Coastline

MOSCOW, July 27—(AP)—The Soviet press observed Russia's Navy Day Sunday by emphasizing that the Red fleet should be built up with "new, modern ships of all types."

Naval experts, writing for various Russian publications, said the chief function of the Russian Navy was guarding the country's coastline against possible invaders.

REPORT FROM THE COUNTRY

Bankers Made This Man...

By RALPH McGILL

ELBERT COUNTY—"How would you like to meet a very successful farmer who never in his life owed anybody a dollar?" asked Webb Tatum, the veteran County Agent, of Elbert.

"He never has owed two bits, even, or a dime, or as much as a red cent," added Carl Smith, the Soil Conservation Agent.

"I didn't know there was such a man and I certainly would like to see him," I said.

So, that is how we happened to be sitting on the front potch of Ike Gaines' delightful farm house, with a cool breeze blowing and the cornfields stretching away in the fields about us.

Ike Gaines is a man of substance and success.

And he tried mighty hard one day to get into debt.

He didn't. And while the faces of bankers have been a bit red ever since, Ike Gaines is very grateful to them.

As far as I can judge, after the young man Ike Gaines had left the third bank that turned him down for a crop loan back in the early Winter of 1915, what happened was something like that scene in the book, "Gone With the Wind," where Scarlett O'Hara stands out there in the cold garden where she has been digging for the few stray potatoes remaining. She stands erect and raises her hands to Heaven, and says, "I will never go hungry again."

The young man who came back to his bride in 1915, to a rented farm, with the list of things wanted from the store unfilled, didn't go at it so dramatically. But he did pledge to himself that as long as he lived he never would again embarrass a banker by asking him for a loan.

It was mighty tough. But he and a brave wife, who agreed with him, toughed it out and today they live on a farm of more than 200 acres which they long ago paid for; have about $15,000 in war bonds which they bought while a son was a German prisoner following the shooting down of his plane in Italy; plus what the farm has earned through the years. I didn't go into that.

I put this down as one of the finest stories of accomplishment and courage and contribution to Georgia that I have encountered in the journey to date.

It begins in late 1914 when young Ike Gaines, of Elbert County, married a young school teacher. Ike Gaines' fine father had rented land all his life and there wasn't any other course for the young man. He rented land for a start.

It was the custom in those days to get a loan in the early Winter to make that year's crop.

So, that early Winter he took a list of things they badly needed and went to town to get the

Dewey 2nd Choice For Michigan GOP

OWOSSO, Mich., July 27—(AP) Michigan Republican leaders predicted Sunday night that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York probably would be the state delegation's second choice for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

They made clear that the state's senior Senator, Arthur H. Vandenberg, is their "favorite son" candidate.

Dewey arrived in Owosso Sunday evening to visit his widowed mother and try to nail down a runner-up place for Michigan's fat 41-delegate vote at the convention.

POSES AS 'HOWARD HUGHES, JR.'

Boy Throws Party; Father Pays

CHICAGO, July 27—(UP)—A 15-year-old high school boy was discovered Sunday posing as the son of Howard Hughes, millionaire movie producer and airplane builder, and "treating" two classmates to a $96 limousine ride, a champagne supper and a weekend in a hotel penthouse.

Glen Cordes, high school sophomore, readily assumed full responsibility for the party. He said he had a wonderful time.

His father, Gilbert Cordes, a carpenter, paid the bill. It cost him nearly $200.

Hotel officials said they would not seek formal action against the boy, but juvenile authorities said they would look into the matter.

"I only wanted to have a lot of fun and a big party," young Cordes said.

The party was discovered by a reporter who had heard that a Howard Hughes was entertaining at the hotel. He decided to check to see if it was another of the lavish affairs such as Sportsman Hughes allegedly has given for Government officials.

The reporter learned it was "Howard Hughes, Jr.," who was giving the party. He advised the hotel's managing director, Fred Clare, that Hughes, who is in Los Angeles, is unmarried. He was divorced from his only wife, Ella Rice Hughes, in 1929, three years before Cordes was born.

Clare said the gay weekend party began early Saturday when Cordes, a handsome youth with black, bushy hair, appeared at the hotel, identified himself as Hughes' son, and demanded the best suite available.

He was given rooms in the penthouse at $40 a day, Clare said.

A party was arranged in the name of Hughes by the youth, who had signed a guest registration card as "Howard Hughes and family, of 425 Sunset Blvd., Santa Barbara, Cal., Clare said.

Then Cordes decided to go for a ride in style. A private motor livery service was called, purportedly by Hughes, to pick up his "son" at an address on Chicago's Gold Coast.

Cordes said a limousine came for him and then he picked up John Nalenzy, 15, and William Krueger, 17, and returned to the hotel suite. The elder Cordes paid for that, too.

Steak dinners for six were ordered, along with champagne, Clare said. He said the wine bill was $44.50. The steaks were $30.

The reporter who had heard Hughes was in the hotel and wanted to ask him about parties he reportedly has given in Hollywood, went to the penthouse suite. The host to the party said his father and mother weren't in and didn't

On Joint Celebration

AUSTIN, Texas—(UP)—Joint observance of Oklahoma's "Boomer-Sooner Day" and Texas' "San Jacinto Day" has the opposition of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas.

Descendants of the folks who lived in Texas before statehood want the day of the Texans' victory over Santa Ana to remain a lone Texas celebration each April 21.

A joint celebration at Lake Texoma, between the States, had been suggested by the Oklahomans, as the days are successive.

Machinists Spurn Plan To Join AFL

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP)—The International Association of Machinists Sunday announced its 600,000 members have spurned "by a large majority" a plan to return to the AFL—But it wants to try again on better terms.

Assurance that the Union's leaders hope for an agreement diminished the prospect that the referendum rejecting the compromise might signal a permanent split and a stiff blow at future labor peace.

The 59-year-old machinists union, however, pointed in its statement to a long-standing jurisdictional row with the AFL Council and asserted the terms of reunion must be "on a basis of equal treatment and equal status with all other AFL affiliates."

The union was suspended by the AFL more than a year ago for withholding its dues. Since October, 1944, more than $200,000 has stacked up but the machinists have set aside the sum and could hand it over any time.

The Union's statement outlined three requirements by which the AFL could bring the machinists back. These are:

1. That President William Green of the AFL be permitted by the AFL Executive Council "to confirm upon request the machinists' jurisdiction." It contended that denial of this "has encouraged the raiding of the machinists' jurisdiction by several AFL affiliates."

2. That Green notify "the Building Trades and its councils not to interfere with the machinists' rights to erect and repair machinery on construction jobs or other projects."

3. That the AFL "withdraw a Green letter which tried to give operating engineers the machinists' work of trial testing machinery on ships prior to commissioning."

These requirements, the statement said, were set forth in a January referendum when the machinists voted to hold back their payments until the AFL fulfilled them. The new referendum confirmed that action.

U. S. Probes Dominican 'Invasion'

WASHINGTON, July 27—(INS) The State Department launched an independent investigation Sunday of charges by Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier that 3,000 "Communist revolutionaries" plant to use Cuba as a base for an invasion of the Dominican Republic.

United States embassies in Cuba and other Caribbean countries have been instructed to report any information they have bearing on the Dominican allegations.

State Department officials, in the meantime, declined to comment on the situation, but were watching developments closely.

Ambassador Ortega Frier said that, under instructions from his government, he is keeping the U. S. Government informed of counter-measures being taken by Dominican authorities in connection with the alleged plot, and that a formal protest has been made to the Cuban Government.

Dominican Embassy officials said that the bands which had collected in the vicinity of Antillas, Cuba, were composed largely of Dominican exiles who have been in Gautemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico, and that their apparent intention was to overthrow the government headed by President Rafael Trujillo.

Ambassador Ortega Frier said he had reports that a thousand of the "revolutionaries" were scheduled to sail from Cuba last Friday for Dominica, but the Embassy had not been advised today if those plans had been carried out.

Climax Seen in Rift Of City Personnel Board

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Civil Service Board Member Aubrey Milam this week will seek to close the breach between Director Carl T. Sutherland and the three-man City Personnel Board which developed over Civil Service pay policies.

Milam was given the role of peacemaker after a closed meeting with the Board. Two members of the Board, James P. Allen and Gus Harper, reportedly told Milam to act as he saw fit in discussions with Sutherland upon Sutherland's return this week from an Army refresher course tour at Fort Benning.

Though Sutherland and the Board have had differences periodically since Sutherland returned from the Army in 1946, the Director's troubles were intensified in the 1945 session of the Legislature.

The Fulton County delegation pushed through a bill requiring the City to pay skilled mechanics the same scale as that paid in private employment. The City long has paid a scale below the prevailing wage rate on the grounds that the work is on an annual basis, not seasonal, and that the City worker thereby receives more take-home pay.

Sutherland balked at paying the scale directed by the Legislature on the grounds it would upset the pay scales for 2,500 other City employees. The scale has never been adopted by the City therefore. The Board favored payment.

Subsequently the argument over wage scales resulted in bitterness between Sutherland and the Board with the latter rejecting several recommendations made by the Director.

Most recent setback was Sutherland's proposal to reclassify jobs in the office of City Comptroller B. Graham West. West objected strenuously and the Board upheld his position.

Following the West episode, Sutherland complained to Mayor Hartsfield that the Board was not supporting his recommendations. He said the situation was "embarrassing."

There have been rumors that the Board would like to replace Sutherland, an act which would require a majority vote, the filing of charges against Sutherland and a hearing.

Milam is reported to have hopes of settling the controversy peacefully.

PICKPOCKET TAKES WALLET AND $510

A pickpocket made a rich haul at the Union Station Sunday when he sneaked a wallet out of the pocket of J. H. Bohannon, Jr., of 1073 Shelby Pr., S. W., and thereby obtained $510 in cash.

Bohannon told police that he went to the Station to see a friend off on the train. He said the theft took place while he was in the crowd on the train platform.

"NOW THE WAY I PLAY"—Phil Reeves (right), President of the Calhoun Rotary Club, explains to Jack Lance, Secretary of the Calhoun Club, that, according to his rules of the game, a "topper" is the same as a "ringer." The horseshoe match was a highlight of the Atlanta Rotary Club's annual outing which was held at the Brookhaven Country Club. More than 200 persons attended, including members of the Atlanta Club and visiting Rotarians from neighboring communities.

Seaboard To Add Luxury Cars To 'Silver Comet'

Streamlined, stainless-steel tavern-lounge observation cars will be added to Seaboard Railroad's Silver Comet between Atlanta and New York effective today, according to H. E. Pleasants, General Passenger Agent, in Atlanta.

In announcing the addition of these new luxury cars, Pleasants stated that more de luxe coaches will be placed in service in this train on the same date.

The tavern section of the observation car, where snacks and refreshments will be served, accommodates 34 persons. The observation end, with its comfortable chairs and lounges, wide glare-proof windows and soft, fluorescent lighting, seats another 25.

At the two sales, commercial buyers will be able to name their own prices on $285,675 worth of surplus of almost every imaginable category, Graham said.

The Robins Field sale, beginning at 1 p. m., will offer $216,319 worth of surplus located at the Naval Ordnance Plant, Macon; the Federal Public Housing Administration, Macon; Warner Robins, and Robins Field.

The Turner Field sale, beginning at 1 p. m., will offer $69,355 worth of surplus located at Moody Field, Spence Field, the Bainbridge Army Airfield, Veterans' Hospital at Thomasville, and Turner Field.

Missing Plane Reported to Officers

City Detectives and State Patrolmen were alerted Sunday for an airplane reported missing from the Municipal Airport.

Hoyt P. Moss, Rt. 4, College Park, owner of the plane, told Detectives R. A. Thomas and E. A. Mulligan the plane disappeared from the ramp on which it was parked Sunday afternoon.

The plane, NC-66079, was presumed stolen.

ARMED FORCES' NEWS

Chaplains' Corps Marks 172 Years of Service

The Chaplains' Corps of the United States Army observes its birthday today, marking 172 years of service to the spiritual welfare and guidance of the men who have fought for the United States.

Atlanta chaplains, headed by Col. Ralph W. Rogers, Third Army Chief Chaplain, will celebrate the occasion with a dinner at the Fort McPherson Officers Club at 7:30 p. m. today.

The first formal recognition for Army chaplains was granted by the Continental Congress in 1775 when a chaplain was included on the Army payroll with a salary of $20 a month. The Rev. John Hurt, of Virginia, was the first chaplain. After the Revolutionary War, he continued in the peacetime American Army.

During World War II, on an approximate basis of one chaplain to each 1,200 men, the personnel of the Corps reached a peak of more than 8,000 chaplains. Two-thirds of these went overseas.

There are now 1,600 chaplains in the Army, about one for each 900 men—a recognition of both the varied services of a chaplain and his worth to the Army.

The Coast Guard announces that it has a large number of World War II Victory Medals and American Defense Service Medals to be distributed to Coast Guard veterans beginning Aug. 1.

Step right up, if you're eligible, and get your medals. Bring your discharge to 326 Ten Forsyth Street Building.

Young men over 17 years of age may now enlist in the Marine Corps without the written consent of their parents or guardians.

Another change, announced by the Atlanta Marine Corps Recruiting Office, permits men of the rank of sergeant, or above, who have dependents, to be re-enlisted without special authority therefor.

Also, the 30-day limit on re-enlisting to be reappointed to your previous rank has been extended to 90 days.

Nurses, physiotherapists and dietitians are now able to apply for commissions in the Officers Reserve Corps.

Eligible Georgians should apply for Reserve commissions at the Georgia Military District, 101 Cone St., Atlanta.

The Navy's pilots will no longer begin flight training in the "Yellow Perils" (light biplanes). All students will now train in the SNJ "Texan", a low-wing monoplane, much like a modern operational type aircraft.

The Navy expects to train better fliers in a shorter period of time at less cost.

The Croix de Guerre with Palm was presented to Col. Thomas M. Brinkley, of Warrenton, a patient at Oliver General Hospital, by the French Government.

The presentation was made in a formal ceremony. The citation, read in French, praised Col. Brinkley for his distinguished services in the liberation of the French nation.

Sgt. Donald L. James, of Columbus, now stationed at Fort McPherson, received the Cross de Guerre with Bronze Star in a formal ceremony at Fort Mac.

A limited number of scholarships, made available by the Army, are offered soldiers at Fort McPherson for courses at night schools and colleges in Atlanta.

The entire cost of tuition and books is taken care of. It will not be deducted from the GI Bill educational privileges.

WAC Capt. Irma Nunes, of 359 Sixth St., who practiced law in Atlanta before she joined the Army, is the first woman to prosecute a war criminal case for the 7708 War Crimes Group, which has conducted trials at Buchenwald, Dachau, Flossenburg and Mauthausen.

Capt. Nunes will prosecute Otto Skerzeny, former Colonel in the Waffen SS who effected the release of Benito Mussolini from his captors in the Italian Gran Casse mountains in 1944.

World Crisis Reds' Fault, DeGaulle Says

RENNES, France, July 27—(AP) Gen. Charles De Gaulle said Sunday that Russia was responsible for the "alarming" world situation and charged French Communists with "exclusively" serving Moscow's orders.

Russia, he said in an address here, dominates a bloc of 400,000,000 people bordering on Sweden, Turkey and Italy and whose frontier "is only 500 kilometers (300 miles) from ours."

He appealed for recruits to join his national unity movement, the rally of the French people, which he said he had formed in order that France might obtain a solution of the German problems and also take the leadership "of those who wish to remake Europe in equilibrium and freedom."

PROMOTIONS—Charles W. Storey, of Egan Park, now stationed in Erding, Germany, has been promoted to the rank of Corporal. . . . Bobby J. Brooks, of Clarkesville, also stationed in Erding, has been promoted to the grade of Staff Sergeant. . . . Pfc. Thomas Stewart, of 1492 South Gordon St., has won his paratrooper wings at Carelus Field on the island of Honshu, Japan. . . . Arthur D. Smith, of 705 Killian St., has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant; he's stationed in Korea. . . . Durward A. Duke, of 199 Ivy St., N. E., was promoted to the grade of Corporal at Oliver General Hospital in Augusta.

Among the 200 reservists who will conclude the Officer Reserve Course today at Fort Benning are seven Atlantans:

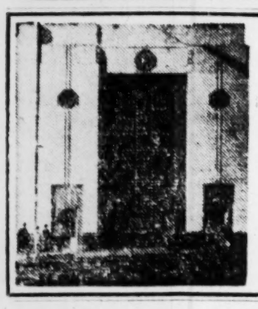

Maj. Wilbur B. King, of 859 Delaho Dr., N. E.; Maj. Carl F. Merlet, of 3396 Peachtree Rd., N. W.; Lt. Col. Lewis W. deJarnette, of 666 Yorkshire Rd., N. E.; Maj. John J. Schuyler, of 1161 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E.; Col. Robert M. McFarland, Jr., of 1422 Emory Rd., N. E.; Lt. Col. Clarence E. Palmer, of 726 Amsterdam Ave., N. E., and Lt. Col. William Hugh Weir, of 945 Rupley Dr., Northeast.

RAIL TRACKS ARE "STREETS" IN THIS TOWN—The Decatur industrial development, one of the Atlanta metropolitan area's planned manufacturing communities, is interlaced by railroad tracks. Every plant in the development will front a railroad track, which connects with a lead track off Georgia Railroad's main line.

NEW LANDS OPENING UP

Railroads Entering Second Era As Industrial Empire Builders

By BILL BORING

The railroads opened up this country.

Back in the mid-Nineteenth Century they thrust their ribbons of steel into what was then the wilderness of America.

Out from the Eastern Seaboard into the land beyond the Appalachian Range, out into and beyond the plains of the great Middle West—out to the Pacific Coast. Coast.

The railroads brought the people out into the open country. They hauled the lumber, the nails, the brick and the steel for industrial construction.

From the main trunk lines, they thrust out into every direction. Villages began to spring up around the junctions and watering stations. The villages grew into towns, the towns into great cities.

The railroads co-operated with the Federal, State and local governments in promoting growth—industrial growth, agricultural growth.

The railroads made America great.

But they built so well they soon found the thing they had built had become a Frankenstein to destroy them. The cities which they helped to build became too large. Industry began moving out into the wider spaces. Industry needed "elbow" room.

Industry sought highway locations and this ushered in the era of the big trucks.

New cities began to spring up. Express highways interlaced an empire that was growing more and more independent of the railroads.

But today, the railroads are entering their second era of building industrial empires.

Once again they are working in conjunction with governmental units in opening up new lands to industry.

Along their lines they are purchasing huge tracts of land, or encouraging private interests to do so. These will be developed into planned industrial communities.

Into the heart of these huge industrial tracts, the railroads are laying miles of railroad tracks. Lead lines from which spurs will branch off like streets in a town.

On these spur sites are rising factories, each at car-loading level with the railroad line.

Such a development is taking shape on East Ponce de Leon Avenue in Decatur. The development is sponsored by the Georgia Railroad, the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce, Scott Candler, DeKalb Commissioner of Roads and Revenues, and Guy W. Rutland, Decatur construction engineer.

The Decatur development embraces 125 acres of land which has been cleared for the location of factories, in accordance with an industrial community plan.

The streets in this new community will be railroad lines. The buildings all will be factories.

The entire development, which spreads off into many directions, is built around a central lead line of 3,300 feet, which, in turn branches off the main line of the Georgia Railroad. From the lead line branch many spurs, each serving a factory location.

The Georgia Railroad laid this lead line, together with three miles of freight yards and a team track to serve smaller industries in the community, in the interest of promoting industry. And in building up industries on its line, the railroad's business, naturally, is helped.

DeKalb County is laying water and sewerage lines in the property. The DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce and E. P. Barbre, the Georgia Railroad's general agent in charge of industrial development, are after factories for the development. And they're getting them, too.

Already rising on the site is a beautiful million-dollar plant which will house the Lenox Furnace Company branch in this area.

First unit of this modern plant will be a brick building of 42,000 square feet of floor space. There will be three units in all.

This is a brand new industry for Georgia, meaning thousands of dollars in payrolls and purchases.

It is one of the world's largest builders of furnaces, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio.

Still another factory will be the Tri-State Culvert & Manufacturing Company, which will build on a three-acre tract.

Factories already in operation are:

Brumby Metals Manufacturing Company, producers of metal products. Its plant space covers 15,000 square feet.

Woodward Playground Equipment Company, manufacturers of slides, swings and other playground equipment. Its plant embraces 15,000 square feet of floor space.

Noble Sausage Company, which also operates one of the most modern abattoirs in the country.

Economy Forms Corporation, manufacturers of concrete forms used in building.

M. R. Snipes, manufacturer of concrete products.

Consolidated Quarries, Inc., manufacturer of cement bricks and cement products.

Universal Steel, Inc., manufacturer of trusses for building.

Steel, Inc., manufacturers of cranes and structural steel.

Whitley Construction Company, manufacturers of mortar and ready-mixed concrete.

Venetian Blind Company, W. T. Shackelford Company, Veterans Lighting & Equipment Company, Besser Manufacturing Company, Robinson Manufacturing Company, Insul-Wool Insulating Company, these and others are in operation.

Moreover, a half dozen other factories are negotiating for sites.

Boyd K. Sutton, Manager of the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, points out that the industries in operation and in process of building are handling a diversity of products. He believes that planned industrial communities are the answer to the Nation's expanding economy.

"FACTORY TOWN" RISING IN DECATUR—The Lenox Furnace Company's plant rising on a Georgia Railroad spur in Decatur's planned community for industries—a 150-acre tract in the East Ponce de Leon section. Joining in this enterprise are the Georgia Railroad, the DeKalb County Chamber of Commerce, Scott Candler, Commissioner of Roads and Revenues in DeKalb, and Guy Rutland, civic-minded business man and contractor, who furnished the land for the development. The bulldozer is cutting the gap for the spur, which will lead off a main line to loading platforms.

INDUSTRIAL BOOST

Sale of Fort Oglethorpe To Aid Northwest Georgia

Sale of Fort Oglethorpe, scheduled by War Assets Administration to be made within the next six weeks, should contribute materially to industrial development of Northwest Georgia, W. C. Wallace, WAA Zone Administrator, said here Saturday.

Establishel during Spanish-American War days as a cavalry post, Fort Oglethorpe was declared surplus by the War Department and turned over to WAA for disposition June 22, 1947. It is located 10 miles South of Chattanooga in Walker and Catoosa counties.

F. L. McGinnis, WAA Deputy Zone Administrator for Real Property, has designated an area of some 120 acres, described as "covered with large warehouses, railway facilities, complete utilities, and adequately drained," for sale as an industrial or commercial development.

McGinnis told a delegation of Chattanooga businessmen, headed by Mayor Hugh P. Wasson, that WAA will undertake to sell the buildings in the industrial or commercial area, served by spurs from Central of Georgia railway, to a firm or firms which will operate a manufacturing plant.

"Interests of the community will come first," he said, adding that WAA is looking for a buyer who will bring new payrolls to the area.

Approximately 155 veterans of World War II, living with their families in buildings formerly used as quarters for officers and caretakers, will not be disturbed for from 12 to 18 months, McGinnis said.

Many temporary buildings located on other parts of the installation will be sold for off-site use. All buildings located on Fort Oglethorpe's South Post will be sold for off-site use, because they are located on land owned by the Department of Interior as a part of Chickamauga National Park. This land must be returned to the owning agency, it was explained.

"Except to protect veterans tenants, WAA will give unrestricted deeds to the successful purchaser or purchasers of the 810 acres of lang comprising the North Post," McGinnis said.

RURAL RENAISSANCE

Future Farmers Develop Finer Farm Facilities

During the past year 1,176 Georgia farm boys, who this week are attending the Future Farmers Convention at Jackson Lake, spent much time painting their homes, planting shrubbery, building water systems, and installing bathrooms as they participated in home improvement contests.

Records show that 331 boys, guided and encouraged by their vocational agricultural teachers, brightened up the outside appearances of their dwellings by applying fresh coats of paint. Of this number, 110 put on one coat, while 221 applied two coats.

Better facilities for getting water were provided in other homes, with 154 boys installing power-driven pumps, 95 building masonry well curbs, 44 putting in hand pumps, and 90 actually piping running water into their dwellings.

Seventy-nine FFA members built sanitary deep pit outdoor toilets, and 59 constructed bathrooms with running water, commode, and septic tank or its equivalent.

Other boys with a desire for better surroundings graded their yards and planted shrubbery, repaired steps, remodeled porches, built and repaired screen doors and windows.

Carlyle Fraser Editors' Speaker

Carlyle Fraser, President of the Genuine Parts Company, will speak at a dinner meeting of the Southern Industrial Editors Association at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Mammy's Shanty.

Fraser is Vice President of the United States Chamber of Commerce and a former President of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

Dean John E. Drewry, of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism at the University of Georgia, will present a draft of the tentative program for the First Annual Industrial Editors Institute which is to be held at Athens this Fall.

SAFE BATTERED

Yeggs Take Small Change

Burglars had to be content with about $10 in small change which they found in the cash register in the L. & C. Soda Company's store at 163 Pryor St., S. W., early Sunday morning.

Police found the store's front door pried open and a safe in which the day's receipts were stored, badly battered but unopened. The frustrated yeggs took the change from the cash register before departing.

In another burglary at the home of Charles Alexander, 757 Capitol Ave., S. W., burglars obtained two watches valued at $150, but overlooked a $300 diamond ring which was lying on the dresser near the watches, Alexander told police.

Round-Up of Vet Laws Passed by 80th Congress

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP)—Permission to cash up to $1,800,000,000 in terminal leave bonds tops a long list of veterans' legislation passed by the Congress which went home Sunday.

Affecting probably 9,000,000 men and women, them easure was finally passed July 19 after being in the legislative works through most of the long and busy session. President Truman signed it Saturday with a statement urging the bondholders not to take advantage of it unless they are in actual need of money.

The cash can be had through local banks beginning Sept. 1, or the veterans can hold the securities and draw their 2½ percent interest for the bonds' five-year term, as Mr. Truman recommended.

The bonds were issued, mostly to former enlisted men, as pay for leave which they did not get during their service in the Armed Forces. Some officers got bonds for leave accumulated as enlisted men before they were commissioned, and some officers also got bonds for accumulated leave in excess of 60 days which they had piled up as of last September when the limit on leave accumulation for commissioned personnel was cut back fro 120 days.

Within the limits on accumulated time, officers already were getting the leave pay in cash by staying on the payroll for the necessary length of time after their going out of active service.

Numerous other measures for veterans' benefits were passed, but two in which ex-servicemen's organizations had expressed great interest failed to get through.

Those were the Senate-passed measure boosting by 15 percent the subsistence allotments for veterans attending school, and the bill, which failed to get through either House, under which the salary ceilings for veterans in on-the-job training would have been raised.

Republican Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana told the House that a main reason for failure to push the subsistence allowance boost was a prospect of a veto. Democrats denied President Truman had indicated any such intention. The measure would have increased the allowances from $65 to $75 a month for single men, $90 to $105 for married men, and $90 to $120 for veterans with children.

The proposal on the on-the-job training was to raise the salary level up to which the Government would supplement pay. The allowances are limited to $65 a month for single men and $75 for married men. The Government will put up any part of those sums necessary to bring a veteran's total income up to $175 for a single man or $200 for a married man. The bill would have made the income ceilings $200 and $250.

Another proposal turned back was to provide Government help in building specially-designed houses for wheel chair veterans.

One educational benefit that did get through put agricultural on-the-job trainees on the same financial footing as those in industrial plants. Formerly they had been limited to one-fourth of the benefits provided for other job trainees.

Among other measures affecting veterans which went through the first session of the Eightieth Congress were these:

Increasing pensions of Spanish-American war veterans and veterans of the War Between the States by 20 percent;

Repealing the time limit for reinstatement of National Service Life Insurance;

Increasing from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000 the revolving fund for loans to veterans taking vocational training;

Providing priorities and financing aid in the purchase of Government surplus permanent-type housing;

Permitting banks to accept 25-year mortgage loans, expanding the market for the paper that finances many veterans' houses;

Extending the law permitting purchase of automobiles for veterans who have lost limbs;

Extending the time for bringing alien fiancees to the United States, and Expediting the admission of alien spouses and children to this country.

'Psycho' Vets Hospitalized 5,400 a Month

WASHINGTON, July 27—(UP) The number of veterans entering hospitals for mental disorders is rising steadily, but the number of patients being discharged is going up at the same rate.

Latest figures show that 5,400 veterans with neuropsychiatric disease are being admitted to Veterans' Administration hospitals each month. This compares with 3,600 two years ago.

Discharges, on the other hand, have risen from 3,300 to 5,200 a month.

Meantime, Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service, announced the start on a $7,500,000 national mental health program authorized by Congress. It includes increased research, additional training of personnel and stimulation of State efforts to develop programs in the field of prevention and early treatment.

The goal is establishment of one mental health clinic for each 100,000 of the population as well as traveling clinics for sparsely settled rural areas.

CONSTITUTION HAPPY—Charles Nisbet Dennis, of Bunkie, La., came back to his native Georgia after 21 years' absence. With him he brought an 1887 issue of The Constitution which he has kept with him through the years. Dennis, who used to sell Constitutions in Eatonton, came by The Constitution to "get acquainted."

Own Homes Look Good To Weary Solons

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP)—Georgia Congressmen are planning a hasty exodus from Washington to the relative quiet of their home towns.

The entire 12-man delegation hopes to establish Summer offices in Georgia within ten days.

Most of the lawmakers plan to spend the Summer and Fall tending to local politics and sounding out local sentiment. Two representatives will return to Washington for committee hearings and Sen. Russell may deside to participate in traveling congressional investigations.

Russell has been invited to join two delegations from the Committee on Armed Services—one traveling to Europe and the other to the Far East. Another invitation would take him to Mexico with a group from the Appropriations Committee. He plans to open an office in Winder within ten days, before deciding on his recess schedule.

Sen. George is leaving early this week for Vienna, where he will open an office. The senior Senator said he had rejected an invitation to go to Rio de Janeiro to represent the United States at an Inter-American Conference. He has speaking engagements scheduled on Aug. 30 at the University of Georgia and on Labor Day in Atlanta.

Rep. Pace plans to leave Washington Aug. 4 for his home in Americus but will return to the Capital in October for hearings on a long-range agricultural program.

Rep. Wood expects to leave Monday for Canton. He will return in the Fall for a series of hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Carl Vinson, veteran representative from Milledgeville, already has returned to Georgia. Rep. Preston was scheduled to leave Sunday for Statesboro. He will reopen his Washington office Sept. 15 and also will maintain headquarters in Statesboro.

Rep. Brown will leave this week for Elberton. Rep. Camp will keep offices open both in Newnan and Washington during the recess. He plans to leave this week.

Rep. Cox will close his Washington office and conduct business in Camilla beginning next week.

Rep. Davis plans to leave this week and will maintain offices in Washington and Atlanta. Rep. Wheeler, leaving Monday, also will maintain offices in the capital and his home, Alma.

Rep. Lanham plans to get away Tuesday for Rome. He says during the Summer he will spend at least a week in each county of his congressional district.

CONGRESS

day, wound up its activities with old-fashioned bare knuckle political oratory that threatened several times to go on right up until the Sunday morning church hour.

It was the first time Congress had been in session on Sunday since March 3, 1920. But there was no way for the Senate to avoid it, since the House had already gone home. Republican leaders simply shut their ears to repeated shouts of "we want to quit!" and threatened to keep the session going until late Sunday night to get the necessary jobs done. When at last it adjourned, the Senate had been working—and scrapping — continuously for 17 3-4 hours.

Much of the last-minute, explosive controversy grew out of efforts by Sen. Brewster, Republican, Maine, to defeat Mr. Truman's nomination of Philip Perlman, of Baltimore, Md., as U. S. Solicitor General. Perlman was approved, 58 to 21.

More delay and more fireworks also resulted from an 11th-hour attempt by Sen. Ferguson, Republican, Michigan, to get action on the GOP's plan to look into the way the Justice Department handled alleged Missouri vote frauds last year. Democrats, who thought they had scuttled it for good this year during their Thursday night "talkathon" against it, rose quickly to the challenge and forced its withdrawal for the last time until 1948.

Among other things, the last 24 hours produced these results:

1. The Senate approved the nomination of Secretary of the Navy Forrestal to be the nation's first Secretary of Defense under the new law unifying the Army, Navy, Army Air Forces, and Marine Corps. Mr. Truman signed the legislation and announced Forrestal's appointment as he boarded his plane for Grandview, Mo., Saturday.

2. Five appropriation bills for this fiscal year ending next June 30 were wrapped up for the White House.

As the last of the spending bills was cleared away, it was estimated that Congress had set aside $31,595,300,000 to run the Government during th 12 months which began July 1. This was $2,787,700,000 less than the President requested, but fell far short of the economy goals fixed by the Republicans when they seized control of Congress last November.

Republicans and Democrats disagreed sharply on the results of the economy campaign. Chairman John Taber, Republican, New York, of the House Appropriations Committee, shouted gleefully to his colleagues in a pre-adjournment speech that "we've saved five billion dollars!" Democrats scoffed at this claim. The GOP, they said, had made "a sorry record."

Sen. Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, in a farewell radio talk to his Maryland constituents Sunday, put the savings at no more than $1,293,875,008. But he said the GOP deserved "commendation, even if it did fall far short" of the original House goal of $6,000,000,000 and the Senate estimate of $4,500,000,000.

In other last-minute actions, the legislators:

Removed features found objectionable by Mr. Truman and sent to him for a second time legislation extending price support for wool through 1948 at 1946 prices.

Put off action on the President's request for legislation to permit large numbers of war refugees to enter the United States.

Approved a uniform promotion system for all the Armed Forces, based on merit instead of seniority. This would give the Army a "selection promotion" system similar to that long in use by the Navy.

C. N. Dennis Sold Constitutions Back in 1897

Charles Nisbet Dennis, of Bunkie, La., came back to Georgia with an 1887 issue of The Constitution tucked firmly under his arm.

Dennis grew up in Eatonton, where he began selling The Constitution in 1897 when he was 14 years old. There was no Sunday train to Eatonton at that time, and when the Spanish-American War began, Dennis used to ride his bicycle 21 miles to Madison to get the Sunday Constitutions.

"I used to take 100 Constitutions on the handlebars of my bicycle and carry them over dirt roads in the heat of the day," he recalled. "Boy, people really wanted the Sunday paper. I paid a cent and a half for them, and sold them for 10 cents."

Dennis left Georgia in 1920 and has lived in Mississippi and Louisiana since then. But always, he has kept with him an issue of The Constitution dated Nov. 11, 1887, addressed to his father, W. M. Dennis.

So, when he came back to Georgia this week to visit his brothers, in Macon and Eatonton, he brought the aged and yellow copy with him. He came by The Constitution to say hello to Clark Howell, the Publisher.

"Used to know your father," he said.

The 1887 edition contains news about the anti-prohibitionists, Gov. Bullock, the anarchists in Chicago and an ad for Dr. B. M. Wooley, who offered "opium and whiskey habits treated."

Dennis is the brother of the late Frank Dennis, of Eatonton, with whom he operated a grocery in Eatonton when they were both in their teens. He is also the brother of Willie Dennis, of Macon, and Plunket Dennis, of Eatonton.

Congress Gave Russian Curbs Green Light

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP)—Only half the legislation Secretary of State Marshall recommended to Congress as "urgent" was passed in the session which closed Sunday.

However, the bills which were approved included almost all bearing upon the American conflict with Russia—chief among them authority and money for the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish program.

Administration officials said the record was by no means a bad one for foreign policy co-operation between the Democratic administration and the Republican-led Congress.

Marshall sent to Chairman Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Jan. 29 a list of 10 matters for congressional action which he called "urgent items in order of priority." He attached an additional list of 17 items which he marked "important for this session of Congress." Thirteen of the latter failed of passage.

Later, additional legislation was presented by the Secretary or President Truman for urgent action, so that in effect the original list of 10 was expanded to 14. Here is how the 14 "urgent" proposals stood when Congress finished up:

Passed:

1. Continuation of relief programs after the end of UNRRA. Congress approved and appropriated $332,000,000 for the task, $18,000,000 less than the State Department recommended. The cut was designed by Congress to deny relief to Hungary and Poland.

2. Ratification of peace treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

3. Legislation for American membership in the International Refugee Organization.

4. Legislation to carry on America's part in a children's aid fund left over from UNRRA.

5. Tax exemption for gifts from American citizens to the United Nations.

6. The Greek-Turkish program.

7. Authorization for a United Nations trusteeship arrangement by which the United States has taken over control of former Japanese-held islands in the Pacific.

One bill Marshall regarded as "important" which failed of passage was authorization for the President to send United States military and naval missions to foreign governments.

loan for the crop.

They turned him down.

He came back home. They both cried a little. But just a little. They then made that resolve. Ike Gaines recalls he had about $50 and his wife had saved about as much out of her school-teaching.

They bought $50 worth of fertilizer and $50 worth of furniture.

Ike Gaines shakes his head now, and laughs and says, "you ought to have seen that furniture."

But, it wasn't a laughing matter then.

They made it. They had a few chickens and they sold them along to buy a few things to eat. They had their own eggs and a cow. They got in a garden.

They can laugh, now, when they remember one eight-pound bucket of lard they had and used for cooking only when they had company. Since that time they have never bought any lard, meat or flour. Not a bit.

They made a good crop that year and they raised all they ate. They then set out to make more than a living. Ike Gaines began to want to own some land. The fire of the bankers' refusal still burned in him.

In 11 years they had enough, from rented land, on shares, to buy 202 acres of land and build a house—without going in debt for a nickel. They also were bringing up two fine boys.

To me, that accomplishment is one of the greatest stories with which I have met.

Turned down in 1915, they were owners of 202 acres of good farm land and a nice house in 1926 with money in one of the banks that had refused a small loan in 1915.

There was another unusual feature to this climb.

Ike Gaines was renting land next to the farm he now owns. The owner of that land, 411 acres, was growing only cotton. He had some bad crops and he began to force his land. The land got poorer and poorer and so did the owner. He began to borrow money.

At last he got down to where, on those 400 acres, he was making a one-horse crop, and was running rows between the gullies that had washed in his land.

One day he had to give up. His land was put up for sale. Ike Gaines bought 202 acres of it and his brother-in-law bought the rest of it.

Since that time what that farm has made has been net. There have been enough chickens, eggs and timber sold to pay for the operation of the farm. I doubt if there is anywhere a better farm management than that on the Ike Gaines farm.

He has had time to devote much of his time to community work. During the war, with his son, Winfred, in a German prison camp, he was very active as a speaker at bond sale rallies. He was very effective. And he bought as he talked.

He also has been superintendent of the Coldwater Methodist Church for many years and is at present active in the financing and the physical work of building a new church.

He took that old cotton farm land and has 80 acres in cultivation. That land today is as fine farm land as can be found in the State. The gullies are gone and the worn-out soil is now productive and has been for many years. He has about 100 acres of timber, much of it cedar. More than 100 years ago some Tennesseans came through and brought with them cedar saplings. They settled there and today that section has a lot of cedar.

Building the first terraces—in the days before there was a Soil Conservation Service, and machinery, was done with scoops. Today there isn't a break in the land. Its contours and its crops are beautiful to see.

Land that would produce even a fourth of a bale when he bought it, now grows better than a bale an acre.

He grows wheat (and has enough on hand to last eight years, after selling an older crop), oats, cotton and is developing a herd of beef cattle. He believes that Elbert County's lower region is the best cattle country in the State.

On his place are, of course, a fine garden, pigs and chickens and milk cows. His wife has been a fine partner and the pantries are filled with canned vegetables, fruits and meats. The smokehouse is all right, too.

Of course they have worked hard. And of course those first years were very hard. Only stout hearts would have lasted through. But, because of their work and courage, Georgia has a fine farm where a bad one was, and substantial citizens, who help build churches and support their Government, where failure was.

I sure liked them and their story.

Tomorrow I want to write of some other Elbert County farmers who have done a job for their county and State.

Seek Identity Of Weapon in Bride Slaying

SUMMERVILLE, July 27—(AP)—The Georgia Bureau of Investigation Sunday sought to identify the weapon in the slaying of Mrs. Katherine Brown, 20-year-old bride of three months who was shot to death early Saturday in a room with a friend and three sleeping children.

GBI Director W. C. McLemore said ballistics tests were under way in Atlanta to identify definitely the "suspected weapon" in the case.

Earlier theories that Mrs. Brown had been stabbed were abandoned after officers found a bullet lodged in her shoulder. The bullet apparently struck her wrist and then left a jagged wound in her neck, giving the appearance of a knife wound, McLemore said.

The GBI Chief said officers definitely had eliminated any possibility of a robbery or sex motive for the slaying and that they were investigating a "personal motive."

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Brown Sunday in Centre, Ala., her former home.

Chattooga County Sheriff A. H. Glenn said officers went to Cedar Bluff, Ala., Saturday to question a former husband whom Mrs. Brown married when she was 14 years old. He said Mrs. Brown and her former husband had been divorced for about five years.

Her bridegroom of three months, Bill Brown, was at work in a textile mill near here at the time of the slaying, the Sheriff said.

Republicans Lose Fraud Vote Test

That look of pious purity on the Republican congressional face looks as false as its motive in its thwarted demand to investigate United States Attorney General Tom Clark for protecting fraud in Missouri elections.

The Atlanta Constitution wants all fraud uncovered. But the Republican intent here plainly was not to uncover fraud but to set up a sounding board from which they could produce daily charges against the Democratic Administration, and the President in particular, between now and the next Congress. The election is in 1948 and the Republicans wanted to begin beating the tomtoms.

The fact that all Democrats, even those who have been over in the Republican camp on other measures, saw this attempted smear for what it was and solidly opposed it, is but added evidence that the Republican hypocrisy was very thinly veiled indeed.

There probably was fraud in Missouri.

But, we submit, the proper officials to deal with fraud in Missouri are the Governor and the State Attorney General, who can be forced into action if the public will is made clear.

To Inspect Self-Service Laundries

Atlanta's health authorities are to be commended for the quick action in placing self-service laundries under rigid inspection following charges in Washington by Rep. O'Toole, New York Democrat, that the coin-operated laundry machines contain "violent, disease-producing bacteria."

Health departments of other Georgia cities might well follow Atlanta's example.

The self-service laundry has enjoyed phenomenal growth since the war. There are a score or more in Atlanta and suburbs and at least one in every Georgia city of size. And in this day of the disappearing "washwoman," these laundries answer a real need of thousands of housewives.

But health authorities everywhere should recognize, and operators of these laundries must admit, that unless proper sanitary precautions are observed a new health menace has been created. It is not inconceivable, as Rep. O'Toole asserted, that laundries which fail to take proper sanitary measures could become the source of epidemics of various sorts.

The New York self-service laundries, of which Rep. O'Toole spoke, use water of an average temperature of 140 degrees. This is hot enough, the Acting Health Commissioner there said, to discourage the breeding of disease germs, but not sufficiently hot to kill all of them. The machines can be made sterile, however, by use of live steam, or what Rep. O'Toole called "effective germicidals."

While there seems to be no cause for alarm here or elsewhere, it is well that the controversy provoked by Rep. O'Toole's charges is bringing steps to place the laundries under regulations designed to protect the health of the public. And although the New York Representative very likely was indulging in a bit of exaggeration, if his statement serves to bring about that extra ounce of prevention which will stave off some future epidemic his purpose will have been accomplished.

Last of a Fabulous Era

The death of W. C. Bradley, of Columbus, removed from life one of the last survivors of the fabulous era following the reconstruction period in the South, when enterprise was not merely free, but a demonstration of the survival of the fittest.

He was one of the titans of that time. Beginning modestly on a farm, he went into business, creating cotton mills, warehouses and gin companies and making an empire of them. His family came to Georgia from Connecticut prior to the War Between the States, and his life and fortune closely paralleled that of the late Ernest Woodruff, whose family also came from the same New England town and went into business in Georgia before the outbreak of the War Between the States. Together he and Ernest Woodruff established the organization that was to become the Coca-Cola Company of today, although it was not until the genius of Robert W. Woodruff was called to direct the organization that it became world-known as it now is.

Columbus knows his many benefactions. It is anticipated that his will will reveal other bequests to agencies dealing with welfare in his city and State.

There were giants in his day, and he was one of them.

A Suggestion to All Concerned

A taxi driver of the Veterans' Cab Company has been indicted in the murder of Mrs. Jeanette Reyman, of Bogart.

This disturbs all taxi drivers. And rightly. They know they must have the public confidence and it needs to be said that their record is good and merits public confidence. The taxi driver indicted for murder has not, of course, been tried. He may or may not be the guilty man.

The taxi drivers have asked that it be made known they have a good record. We think they have.

But this leads on to a suggestion.

The record of each applicant for jobs is turned over to police. They make a casual check to see if the man has a police record, and, if not, he is okayed.

The union, not the company, really does the hiring.

We suggest that the good record can be made even better if the union and company will join in a thorough check of each applicant far beyond the routine police check. The record would become even better.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

Honest Landlord

Editor, Constitution: In reference to the article on the front page of The Constitution issue of July 23, 1947, headed "Trick Rent Clauses Tabooed, OPA Warns Chiseling Landlords."

First, I suppose that everybody knows, particularly any tenant now enjoying the use of a $50.00 house or apartment still renting for $25.00, that the Office of Rent Control is the savior of humanity and the guardian of life and liberty, and is composed only of Men Who Make America Great.

Be that as it may, it behooves me to call to your and your staff's attention the fact that there may be a few semi-honest landlords and agents representing landlords left, regardless of how you or your staff may feel about any standard lease or so-called "trick clauses" therein contained. It seems to be the policy of your paper and some other papers hereabouts to convey the impression that any landlord or anyone else connected with the renting of any residential property is to be rather carefully watched and that if it weren't for the dear old Office of Rent Control, all life in America would immediately stop.

Personally, I'm sort of fed up on such slop, and I don't believe that I am alone in my feelings.

Incidentally, does the Federal Government furnish the Office of Rent Control with funds to pay your paper to publish such propaganda in order to perpetuate said Office in power and, if not, just what is the general idea that you are trying to convey?

Will you be so kind as to publish this in your Pulse of the Public column

C. M. HUMPHRIES.

(Editor's Note: Delighted to publish it. What Mr. Humphries complains of, was a national release sent to every newspaper in America. Since it was plainly labeled to beware of the small quota of chiseling landlords, which quota embarrasses not merely landlords but every other profession, we do not see any basis for Mr. Humphries' reading into the national rules an attempt to convey the impression that all landlords are tricky and certainly Mr. Humphries will agree it is a good idea to read all contracts, especially the fine print.)

Is This Justice?

Editor Constitution: Your paper has been a part of our family for more than 20 years. It has been constructive and enlightening, and enjoyed to the utmost. However, we would appreciate it if you would change your attack on dictatorship and abusement from Stalin, John L. Lewis and Petrillo and focus it on our domineering, arrogant, bias law enforcement in Georgia.

The State Patrol, who seldom appear until an intoxicated speeder has wrecked, may at will detain, search, abuse and arrest any person, motorist or pedestrian they desire. If your motoring equipment does not indicate that you may be in a position to get a letter through to headquarters, you will be stopped.

Many County Sheriffs are remunerated on a percentage basis. In our County it is 60 percent of all fines, I think. Therefore, at the least provocation an individual not influential in politics is likely to be arrested, tried and fined at the County jail. I can refer you to a man who was jailed for a minor offense a few weeks ago and was denied permission to see, call or write anyone for three days.

Why not expose what is near and dear to us before going to distant regions?

The Lincoln Papers Are Opened

It was a curious thing—opening the letters of a man long dead—a man who had traveled from a log cabin in Kentucky, with a clay floor and mud-chinked walls, to the White House.

But the Lincoln papers deposited with the Library of Congress by Robert Lincoln, only one of Abraham Lincoln's children to grow to full manhood, now are public.

There had been much discussion about them, and some of it was fantastic. Perhaps, as they say, the gaunt, sad man, with the greatest share of patience ever given one person, had loved Ann Rutledge. But he hardly would have written of it in later years. If his heart was in the grave with Ann Rutledge, he hardly would have plucked it forth to wear on his coat or deposit on paper.

Robert Robert Lincoln was a reticent man, but of great feelings. His father had patiently endured the slanders of the evil persons who wrote him vile and obscene letters about himself and his wife. Indeed, many of these letters never got to him. His secretaries took them and some of them will be made public within the next year or so by Helen Nicolay, who has completed a biography of her father, John Nicolay, Secretary to Lincoln.

Robert Lincoln withdrew from the world, perhaps because the world or the fates dealt him many emotional blows. He endured his father's assassination and the turbulent aftermath. It was his melancholy task to sign the papers committing his poor mother to an institution. Destiny made him an observer of the assassinations of two more Presidents, Garfield and McKinley.

Haunted If he destroyed some letters and documents, it is something easily understood. If he felt haunted and believed that he lived under an evil star, that, too, may be understood.

He withheld these papers, now revealed, until 21 years after his death because publication at that time might have embarrassed descendants of dead persons, and persons living.

One must wonder if, after writing this, he did not withdraw other papers. Because first examination of the thousands of letters and documents has revealed no scandal or any word which would embarrass anyone then living or dead.

They do reveal, again, the enormous patience of the man, and his great kindness and gentleness of spirit.

Lee-Lincoln It is a fact that there is much of similarity in the spirit and character of Robert E. Lee and Abraham Lincoln. Both had patience, a high sense of duty, and both were gentle and kind, yet firm and steadfast when duty called. One was patrician and to the manor born. The other came from the frontier of a young, raw country. Destiny was to throw each into the furious furnace of war, revealing many like characteristics. It is quite probable that both were unhappily married, yet both accepted it and if they were not happy, neither the world nor their associates ever knew it by word of complaint or regret from them. To me there is much similarity in their inward selves as revealed by a study of their lives.

Lincoln was the more human man. He liked life and he could put aside his worries and his work, and live and laugh and play. Lee was always reserved, the marble of him cracking only now and then. He was to leave one phrase which has haunted the biographers who have picked at the records of his life: "I've always wanted something," he said, once. And no one yet knows what this man, who was perfection, wanted.

Tom Lincoln In those published documents I have read, none is more touching than that containing a message from the hard-working, toil-worn Tom Lincoln, father of Abraham. He had married a widow named Johnston and her son wrote to Lincoln in 1849:

(May 25, 1849—Letter from John D. Johnston to Abraham Lincoln.).

Friday morning Char—May 25th, 1849.

Dear Brother:

I hast to inform you That father is yet a Live & that is All & he Craves to See you all the time & he wonts you to Come if you ar able to git hure, for you are his only Child that is, of, his own flush & blood & it is nothing more than natere for him to crave to see you, he says he has all most despared of seeing you, & he wonts you to prepare to meet him in the unknown world, or in heven, for he thinks that ower Savour has a Crown of glory, prepared for him I wright this with a bursting hart, I came to town for the Docttor, & I won you to mak and effort Come, if you ar able to get hure, & he wonts me to tell your wife that he Loves hure & wonts hur to prepare to meet him at ower savours feet, we are all well,

Your Brother in hast

J. D. JOHNSTON.

It is a pitiful letter, but one great in humanity and love. It puts to rest, too, the vile gossip that has persisted that Lincoln was born out of wedlock and that Tom Lincoln was not his father.

It is odd how the personality of Lincoln has lived and grown through the years. These new papers will accelerate and augment it.

Their Move

BILLY ROSE

A Study In Murder

Before their marriage, Clifford Wharton had been intrigued by Minna's organizing ability. That, and her fairly considerable annual income. Minna had looked like a short cut to the beautifully run home and expensive creature comforts this poor taxonomist had always coveted. The monies he earned writing articles on the classification of plants were hardly enough to pay for such fancies as imported Dutch candies and custom-made shoes. And so he had permitted himself to be acquired by Minna, much as she had acquired the chairmanship of the Civic Improvement League, and the presidency of the local women's Republican Club.

After three months of marriage, Clifford admitted to himself that he was revolted by his wife. The beautifully run home he had supposed her vigor would produce turned out to be a nightmare of empty tuna-fish cans, stockings hanging in the bathroom and the ceaseless jangling of Minna's telephone.

For 11 years they lived separate lives in the same house. Then one evening Clifford Wharton came home and found Minna had contributed his favorite custom-made shoes to a bundles-for-something cause. That night he decided to kill her.

HIS NEAT mind considered the problem of murder with the same nice precision it might have brought to the business of mixing a salad dressing. The problem divided itself into two sections: (A) how to explain Minna's absence, (B) how to dispose of her body.

His wife solved problem (A) the next morning. She told him she was going to Los Angeles the following week to inspect a settlement house for underprivilged children. Problem (B) he solved for himself when he remembered the long-abandoned icehouse.

At dinner, the evening of Minna's departure for California, Clifford introduced into her coffee several grains of a tasteless plant poison. His wife complained of drowsiness while he was putting her luggage into her car. By the time he switched off his headlights outside the icehouse, Minna was dead.

Gloves, trowel, tarpaulin and bricks were waiting for him where he had placed them the day before. An hour later, Minna and her bags were built into one of the clammy walls.

During the next two weeks, members of the Civic Improvement League who phoned the Wharton house were informed: Minna had caught cold on the way to California. The cold had developel into pneumonia. Penicillin hadn't helped. Clifford was going to California to be at her bedside.

The Hartley Journal received and printed Clifford's wire from Los Angeles that Minna had died and been cremated.

WHEN CLIFFORD returned to Hartley a week later, Minna's aunt, sister and niece were at the station. Clifford received their condolences with quiet dignity.

When he got home, he noted with satisfaction that, as per his instructions, the house had been tidied up. His bed was neatly turned down and the evening paper was waiting for him on his night table.

He undressed, got into bed, sighed happily, and opened the Hartley Journal. A small item on page one caught his eye. It read as follows:

"Workmen today began the removal of an ancient eyesore from the Hartley scene. At the request of the Civic Improvement League, the mayor ordered the the razing of the abandoned icehouse across the river. This brought to a conclusion the campaign initiated some years ago by the late Mrs. Clifford Wharton."

Clifford was half dressed when he heard heavy fotsteps on the porch and the insistent ringing of the doorbell.

This Pastor Has A Burning Conviction

A Milwaukee congregation has accepted the resignation of its pastor, recently sentenced to the State Penitentiary for burning down the church.

This seems rather unjust in view of the fact that he was supposed to be a man of the spirit and not of the world. After all, arson isn't even mentioned in any of the Ten Commandments.

How was he to know that the only fires he was hired to kindle were in the souls of his congregation?

Still, courts have an old-fashioned idea that new churches should be built with box suppers rather than insurance policies. And so the judge gave him from one to five years, this apparently being the ministerial rate.

Before too long, what with time off for good behavior, he'll again be available for pulpit duty. And what sermons he should be able to deliver on such topics as "The Wages of Incendiarism!"

Meanwhile, there's this to be said in his behalf: At least he didn't do it on Sunday.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Truman, Congress Got Along Admirably

WASHINGTON—The warm reception President Truman got on his impromptu visit to the Senate Chamber the other day somehow epitomizes the relationship which has existed between the White House and the Republican-controlled Congress ever since the present session opened.

There have been periods of strife, to be sure. Bricks have been hurled back and forth between the White House and the Capitol frequently. Mr. Truman at times has not hesitated to castigate his congressional critics, and he in turn has been severely castigated by Congress.

But beneath the surface a wholesome feeling of cordiality has usually prevailed.

It has been a far better feeling than most of the cynics were able to visualize at the beginning of the session. After the Republicans captured control of Congress in the elections of last November, many observers were predicting that we would have a stalemate in Government.

Mr. Truman, it was said, would find it impossible to get through any part of his program. Congress was pictured as ready to block him at every turn. Some even suggested that it would be wise for the President to name a Republican Secretary of State and then resign as a means of giving the Republicans full governmental control, thus avoiding the impasse which was threatened.

But it has not worked out that way at all. The bitterness which appeared to be engendered by the President's veto of the tax and labor bills was only skin-deep. Much of the harsh criticism that was directed at the White House on that score was political, intended only for political effect.

Good Feeling As a matter of fact, the relationship between the executive and the legislative branches of the Government is perhaps better than it has been in a half-dozen years. It is attested to by the fact that a considerable part of the President's program has been put through intact. Even those severe cuts the Republicans threatened to make in the Federal budget have failed to materialize. Some reductions were made, but the final record will show that they are far short of the original goals set.

Except for a few sizable cuts here and there, the budget as transmitted to Congress at the outset of the session has remained about as Mr. Truman recommended it.

Not all of this may be attributed to the spirit of co-operation pledged by the President after the Republicans won their victory last November. He had carried out that pledge by having Republican leaders of Congress meet with him regularly almost each week in discussing the legislative program.

Much of the good relationship springs from the fact that Mr. Truman himself is a product of Congress. The ties he made with members of Congress during the 10 years he served as a member of the Senate before being vaulted into the Presidency have served him in good stead.

Most members of Congress knew him personally before he succeeded to the White House mantle. And knowing him, they liked him, irrespective of party.

Such attachments as these are not easily shed simply because a man comes to be President.

Appointments For another thing, Mr. Truman has been more solicitous of the wishes of the Republicans in Congress in making important appointments than his predecessor was.

In filling appointments which normally were expected to go to Republicans, it was the policy of President Roosevelt to make his own selection without consulting opposition leaders. Usually he picked some Republican who had supported him in a previous campaign.

Mr. Truman has done it the other way around. More often he has called in Republican leaders and asked them to name the man.

Hence it was that when the President walked into the Senate Chamber the other day unannounced he received a spontaneous ovation. The staid old Senate arose in a body to give him a hearty welcome. Sen. Vandenberg, the presiding officer, then did the unprecedented thing of suspending proceedings long enough to pay Mr. Truman a wholesome tribute and yield him five minutes' time to say whatever he pleased to the Senate.

What took place was all the more striking because it violated all the rules and traditions of the Senate. The President had the right to enter the Chamber, both because he is a former member and the Chief Executive. But it was most unusual, to say the least, for him to be given an opportunity to make a brief, informal statement having no bearing on the state of the Union or any matter before Congress.

RALPH T. JONES

33 Years Ago an Era Ended---Began

On July 28, 1914, World War I began. On that day ended an era, a way of life. On that day started a period which, in future histories, will be regarded as the time of the great insanity. Perhaps, with growing wisdom, we may now be drawing toward the close of the world madness. Perhaps the sickness has not yet run its course. Perhaps the madness will go on, getting worse, until the patient dies in an agony of atomic fission. Only time will tell the story to its end.

It is impossible to make today's younger generations understand the sense of unbreakable peace which was ours before that tragic day in July, 1914. Those who have been born since the Germans tossed civilization into the cauldron of war cannot realize the complete confidence we felt, in my young days, that war for us, at least, was a thing of the past, a part of the history books, a matter of gone dates and of stories of ancient valors.

True, we knew there were wars, practically always, in progress somewhere in the world. But they were little wars, distant from our quiet lives, wars which did not touch us, save as stories in our newspapers.

Besides, wars were fought by soldiers, volunteers. They did not directly affect the civilian populations back home. Unless a land was actually occupied by enemy troops, civilians knew nothing of war's horrors. And no one had to join the Army. War was an affair of professional soldiers, that was all.

Then the Shock Then came the shock. The unbelievable happened. The peace we had, even without conscious thought, accepted as permanent was shattered. Europe echoed with the roar of guns. A day or two later Britain was drawn in.

I for one among millions was literally stunned at that news. That day I was in Athens, Ga., on business. I could not talk intelligently about routine things. I sat in the lobby of the Georgian Hotel, suffering a form of nerve shock, all through that day. Late in the afternoon I left for home, my business forgotten.

You know the rest of the story. The added shock when war reached across the wide wastes of the Atlantic and sucked this country into its reddened, dripping maw. How the Second World War came, immeasurably more frightful than the first. How, again, we were involved.

Today we know that never again can any country, neither this nor any other, hope to remain aloof, untouched, when the legions of Mars rumble across the land.

The Difference Today war is something far different from what it was prior to that day of 1914.

Today war is no longer an affair of professional soldiers. Not even is it confined to armies of drafted troops in the field, as in the War Between the States. No longer is the devastation confined to the territory held by enemy forces, the areas where battles are actually fought.

Today the advent of aviation has made the entire world a battleground. Not a city, not a town, not a lone home in the country is today safe from the smashing fist of war waged from the skies. The bombs, the robots which, without human crew, cross countries and seas to find a target, may hit anywhere.

Today an entire city, with all who are therein, may be wiped out in a few seconds when the atom bombs fall.

Today, if the Third World War comes, civilization may be erased within a few weeks.

Today the madness which is war can return mankind to his primitive beginnings. Or destroy him altogether.

Do You Wonder? Do you wonder, then, that we of the older ones so often feel nostalgic longing for the older days? They laugh, perhaps tenderly, but laughter all the same, at the Gay Nineties. They think the days of horse cars, of buggies, of gas lights and cobbled streets were slow.

Maybe they were. But I would seriously consider any offer to return to that way of life if the offer carried with it a guarantee of restoration of that confidence in lasting peace, of that sense of security from war that we knew when I was young.

"Tennessee cave owner, thought lost in cave, admits hoax with statement, 'I did it to advertise'."—News item.

With all the troubles now at hand and those which lie in store,
It's difficult to understand why we should seek for more,
But always there's some malcontent who seems to have the art
Of stirring up some devilment or taking things apart.

Confusion follows them because, wherever they may go,
They jeer at custom, break the laws and wreck the status quo,
But fortunately they are few compared to those who try

To keep the highest goals in view and hold the standards high.
There never is a family so pure and undefiled
But one of them turns out to be a wild and wayward child
And while the family regrets to see a member fail,
They pamper him and pay his debts and keep him out of jail.

So that's the way that trouble comes, for all the simple souls
Are busy searching for the bums and dragging them from holes.

Congress Made No Progress

WASHINGTON—When the record is added up and analyzed, it seems to show that the Eightieth Congress, in its first session, has been retrogressive rather than progressive, looked backward more than forward. This is true particularly on domestic matters, but also, to an extent, on foreign policy matters.

Maybe this is what the people wanted when they turned the Democrats out last November and voted in the Republicans. That remains to be seen. The only signs we have thus far are the Gallup Polls showing that Democrats and President Truman have been restored to popular favor over Republicans since the election. What Congress has done or has not done certainly is reflected there, for Republicans have been safely in control.

FROM TIME TO TIME it has been reported here that this Congress not only has neglected to move forward measures in the public interest long pending—for instance housing, health, education, extension of social security and increase in minimum wage rates.

It also has witnessed numerous forays by special interests against existing statutes and policies that found sympathetic response, some enough to be successful, some not enough as yet. In the successful category were the final interment of OPA, removal of controls so as to expedite housing in general and veterans' housing in particular, and the new sugar control act. That act disregards our foreign-trade promotion policy by cutting down quotas for Cuba to the advantage of domestic growers, processors and refiners who will be permitted under its terms to exact higher prices for sugar to the tune of several million dollars annually.

RAIDS in the name of economy on functions of government affecting large numbers of people were minimized by the Senate's action in restoring somewhat the sharp cuts voted by the House in appropriations involving such things as reclamation and public power and Labor Department services, among others.

In the category of special-interest attacks that fell short this session, but undoubtedly will be resumed in the next, were those of the utilities, electric and gas, to weaken the regulatory authority of the Federal Power Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission, and the attempt of the railroads to exempt themselves from the anti-trust laws through the Bulwinkle-Reed bill which got stymied temporarily at least in the House after passing the Senate.

The back-stepping in the domestic sphere, while luckily not gaining the momentum of the Harding era in "back to normalcy" after World War I, was matched to some degree in the sphere of foreign relations. This was manifest in a few overt acts, but was evident likewise in the mood that developed in Congress in its closing weeks that had some aspects of isolationism.

Perhaps most discouraging of all was an omission—most flagrant because it was a simple thing Congress was asked to do and in keeping with our tradition. This was failure of the Stratton Bill to admit some 400,000 displaced persons in Europe—100,000 each for the next four years—who are homeless refugees, many from countries now dominated by Russia to which they do not want to return for that reason. This doubtless will cost us good will, and we need plenty of that.

THE SEMBLANCE of our so-called bipartisan foreign policy was maintained in approval of the Greek-Turkish aid program of the Truman doctrine now discarded in favor of the Marshall Plan. But it was plain that its passage was helped considerably by its anti-Russian cast which fitted so appropriately into the prevailing atmosphere of this Congress. Later, after a cooling-off period, the House Appropriations Committee held up temporarily, obviously as a warning, the appropriations to carry out the Greek-Turkish program, as well as general foreign-relief appropriations in the same bill. Earlier the House had cut down relief appropriations, but the Senate restored them.

HAROLD L. ICKES

It Takes Two For Friendship

On Sept. 28, 1946, in Chicago, I spoke before a "Conference of Progressives." What I said on that occasion was an admonition to certain elements of the "liberal" movement to rededicate themselves to a more American point of view.

Since that time, there have been many rumors of what I did, or did not say. The explanation for the uncertainty is quite simple. Certain persons in charge of the meeting, for reasons best known to themselves, chose not to make copies of it readily available to the press, or to support its sentiments. My philosophy has not changed since that time, and what is happening in the world justifies a remarking of the road that American liberalism must follow. I said in part:

"IT WOULD be strange if we did not regard with some degree of apprehension the steady and rapid expansion of Russian territory and influence. I do not, nor would I attempt, to condone Russian imperialism any more than I would British or French or Belgian or Dutch or Italian or Portuguese imperialism. If we are against imperialism, as we are, then we must be against it regardless of its nationality or its locus in quo.

Our primary objective, now that we have beaten back the menace of Hitler and Mussolini and Hirohito, ought to be to bring peace, a higher standard of living, and security into all parts of the world. I do object, and I shall continue to object, to subjugation by force or by fear, or a yielding to the insidious untruths of propaganda. I would not want the United States to engage in such practices and I cannot excuse them on the part of any other nation in the whole world, including Russia.

"In the field of foreign affairs, too often too many of the liberals of this country have found themselves defending countries or actions that are by no means in the liberal tradition. The liberal movement of this country cannot carry water on both shoulders. If we are for free elections, we must be for free elections not only in our own poll-tax States, but in Spain and Greece, in Poland, Bulgaria, and Romania.

"NO ONE recognizes more seriously than I do our situation in the world today vis-a-vis Russia. I have always endeavored to be understanding of the aspirations of the Russian people. The Soviet Government knows that at a time when it had few friends in the United States I was one of them. But just as it takes two to make a fight, so does it take two to make friendship.

"Probably there is nothing so important in the world today as understanding and sympathy between the Russian people and the American people. I would go far to help to bring such a result. I ask today, as I have asked in the past, why must one be either a most extreme and constant critic of Russia on the one hand, or an admiring and enthusiastic protagonist on the other?

"I would not appease any country in the world, including Russia. I was opposed to the appeasement of Vichy and of Franco's Spain. I would be patient in considering any views that Russia might put forth and I would try to understand her. However, I am convinced that that segment of the liberal movement which, either wittingly or unwittingly, has assumed the burden of defending and justifying Russia's foreign policy should take a more impartial, American point of view.

I submit that true American liberalism no more subscribes unthinkingly to the policies advocated by the Daily Worker than it indorses the highly prejudiced emanations from the Chicago Tribune. The liberalism that I believe in is represented by neither William Z. Foster nor Col. Robert R. McCormick.

"BUT WHILE there are people and institutions in this country that are Soviet-baiters, there also have been men who stood forth on more than one occasion to plead for an appreciation of the Russian people and an attempt to understand them and live with them in this continually shrinking world.

I have made such pleas myself, but I confess that it would be encouraging to me and to others of like mind, if occasionally, out of the vast reaches of Russia, there might have come voices bespeaking for us the sympathetic understanding of the Russian people and insisting upon their desire to live in harmony in the world with us, without giving up anything essential of their own . . . We have extended our hand in friendship to Russia. Let Gromyko and Molotov grasp that hand and not spurn it when it does not hold further concessions.

"America will pay the prevailing price for peace in every market of the world but one—Munich."

"This scent seems a bit elusive—I put a little behind my ears and my boy friend ended up sniffing in the ice box!"

JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

What Does the GOP Want?

WASHINGTON—The just-finished session of the Eightieth Congress leaves behind one big political question: "Just how conservative is the Republican Party?" It has been bitterly remarked that on a secret ballot, a good many Republicans in Congress (like a good many Southern Democrats) would cheerfully vote to shoot the poor. But no Party is to be judged by its lunatic fringe. The real problem—vital in view of the prospects for 1948—is to know where the true Republican average lies.

The peculiar nature of the Republican strategy makes the problem difficult. Knowing that the Republican record in Congress would play a large part in the coming election, the Party's Congressional leaders tacitly agreed on a decidedly astute plan. This session was to be devoted to legislation desired by business, such as the Taft-Hartley labor law and the tax relief bills. The next session was to be (and presumably still is to be) given to measures with a broader-based appeal, such as the Taft housing, education and welfare bills.

THE REPUBLICANS and Southern Democrats have whooped through the measures business wanted with loud cries of joy. Now the problem is whether Sen. Robert A. Taft and the other Republican leaders can shove, drag or otherwise persuade the rank and file to approve the extremely mild program of social legislation. Certain powerful business elements emphatically do not want this social legislation. And judging by the record of these elements' influence in the session just concluded, the outlook for the next session is none too good.

In a previous report in this space, the power lobby's entering wedge to bring back the bad old days has already been described. On other fronts, the swarming lobbyists of special business interests have been earning their fat salaries with even more conspicuous success.

In the field of housing, for example, such prospering spokesmen of free enterprise as Morton Bodfish, of the United States Savings and Home League, have been exceedingly active.

THE TAFT housing bill has been partly emasculated in the Senate Committee, and completely blocked in the House. Meanwhile the effort of former Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt has been completely wrecked; the Administration's feeble post-Wyatt struggles to do something about housing have been rendered even feebler; and the so-called voluntary rent hike has been shoved through the Congress.

The rent hike did not suit the housing lobby. They wanted all ceilings off. And such warm sympathizers as Sen. John W. Bricker, of Ohio (who once remarked the "Marxists must have gotten to Bob Taft." because of the Taft housing bill), did their best to help the lobby. At a Republican conference, Bricker openly urged slipping a complete decontrol bill through this Congress, on the ground that the next session would be too fearful of the embattled tenants to pass such legislation.

He concluded his plea with the revealing remark that if the conference did not go along with him "it wouldn't be the kind of Republican Party he was used to." Bricker did not get his way, but the score for the lobby must be rated at a handsome 85 percent.

GALLUP POLL

Americans, Britons Differ on Government's Role

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Opinion in Great Britain and the United States is pulling in opposite directions on the question of Government's role in the nation's economic life.

Two conflicting philosophies are involved. One holds that the important job of Government is to guarantee jobs and provide security. That is the general philosophy of a majority of British voters today under the Labor regime.

The other philosophy holds that Government should assist private enterprise by simply making sure that there are opportunities for people to get ahead on their own. The weight of public opinion in America is on the side of that philosophy, although a sizable segment want to have the Government guarantee minimum standards.

TO DETERMINE the course which voters in both countries like best the British and American Institutes of Public Opinion polled representative cross sections in their respective countries. Respondents were asked:

"Which one of these statements do you most agree with?" They were handed a card which read:

A. The most important job for the Government is to make it certain that there are good opportunities for each person to get ahead on his own.

B. The most important job for the Government is to guarantee every person a decent and steady job.

The national results were:

	U. S.	Britain
Make opportunities	50%	40%
Guarantee Jobs	43	55
No opinion	7	5

In both countries preference for a straight private enterprise system was found to be highest among the professional, business and white-collar groupings. Approximately 60 percent of these groups oppose government-controlled minimum standards compared to less than 40 percent among wage earners.

AS A GENERAL rule, a smaller percentage of every group in England's population would limit the role of Government than is the case in this country.

As might be expected, 72 percent of Labor Party voters in Great Britain express confidence in the opposite policy—guaranteeing of jobs—against 35 percent among the Conservative and National Liberal voters.

As reported in May, the American Institute found 50 percent of Democratic voters in favor of guaranteed jobs and only 35 percent of Republicans.

Women in both countries are more inclined than men to go along with the theory that Government should guarantee jobs.

THE DIFFERENCE in attitude among citizens of the two great Western democracies may be explained partially by the economic distress under which the British labored even before the war.

The desire of a large number of English voters to have their Government assume a larger part in business life has revealed itself in previous British Institute polls. A majority of respondents, for example, have approved the nationalization of railways, land and coal mines. The Atlee Government has been moving toward these goals.

This nation has lagged behind Britain in enacting social legislation. Unemployment insurance took full effect in England two decades before the New Deal era. The British instituted old-age pensions in 1908, and have had national health insurance since 1911. The all-inclusive Beveridge Plan, guaranteeing security from "womb-to-tomb," becomes fully effective next year.

HAROLD MARTIN

He Makes Paradise Bearable

GUAM—Late in the night, after he has talked to Sidney, Australia, and Manila and Singapore and Tokyo and Toowomba, South Africa, and Winnipeg, and Morton, Texas, and Wake Island and Rangoon and Melbourne, and to Lee Terry in Decatur, and Dick Alford and Norm Fincher, back in Atlanta, Otis Harrison signs off with his famous goodbye which goes:

"This is KG6AD, K-Kentucky, G-Georgia, 6-Six like Sixty, A-Awaiting, D-Departure, KG6AD, on the beautiful island of Guam, the Capital of the Marianas, the Paradise of the Pacific and the gem of the ocean, saying goodnight from our air-conditioned studios overlooking lovely Crowfoot Valley and 1½ minutes from downtown Dededo. Over, out and clear."

When Harrison's Alabama twang has sent this delicate bit of sarcasm spinning out through the limitless ether to the delight and edification of listening hams far away, the listeners in the air-conditioned studios, a flimsy shack which is air-conditioned only by the trade winds and the monsoons, smile wanly and repair to their own beautiful quarters, only 1½ minutes from downtown Dededo, which is a huddle of a dozen old native shanties, and there lie down to stew in their own sweat and in fitful sleep dream of the happy day when they will see Peachtree Street again.

Tech Alumni For Otis' ham station is only a five-minute stroll from the headquarters of Robert & Company here and the gathering in his shack each evening looks like a meeting of the Tech Alumni Association. Draftsmen, engineers, surveyors, all of them, nearly, from Atlanta or its environs, gather with Otis every night and through the friendly hams of the Atlanta stations talk to their wives and mothers back home.

The conversation doesn't amount to much, a man not having too much to say when you come right down to it, except how are you and I'm fine and I'm glad you are all right and how are the kids and stuff like that. But just the fact of being able to get through so easily, and talk to home, has made life more bearable on a rock which bears no resemblance whatever, except from miles away, to a Paradise of the Pacific or any other ocean.

Not Too Bad In fact, as long as Otis has decided to ship over and sign another year's contract—he's a draftsman in the daytime—a lot of the gang who would shake the dust of Guam from their feet forever are deciding that maybe they can stay a few more months, too, though their contracts are expiring.

For no matter how homesick a man gets, and Guam is an island of homesickness, it's not too bad when you can go down to Otis' shack at night and sit there a minute until he twiddles the dials and brings home and all but the living presence of those waiting there right into the room with you.

Your Own Vine and Fig Tree

Among the folks who write to this column is Mrs. Elton Chapman, of Atlanta, and always she has something interesting to discuss. This morning her communication comes under the heading, "Our Own Vine and Fig Tree—This Is America."

You won't need me to tell you that this is thinking right down the groove; all one has to do is to read the line and begin to speculate. This thought spirits us away from the smoke and boredom of industrial America and deposits us down where peace and quietude dwell, under our own vine and fig tree. It places the emphasis on living instead of getting.

MRS. CHAPMAN offers constructive suggestions as to ways of augmenting the vine and fig tree's potentialities. Listen to this: "You mentioned pecan trees for shade. Raspberries and currants make terraces. Wild cherries are good yard trees. So are persimmons, pears, apples, plums. Fig trees hold a terrace. Scuppernong and cluster grapes are good drapes for cabin windows; the ripening grapes are seen and enjoyed as they grow. Black walnuts make good edging for long driveways. What has more "technicolor" than a red locust tree in early July? Blackberries and dewberries hold banks to yard streams."

"Something is wrong in the thinking of our people who have gotten so far removed from that healthy old idea of sitting under our own vine and fig tree," concludes Mrs. Chapman. And she is right.

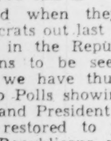

In this world of ours we consistently run over more than we pick up. We are looking out ahead instead of under our feet. We look to the cities and payrolls and of course they are important.

But when we tire of them and the sun of our existence slowly wends its way toward the Western horizon for the last time, we turn again to the simple things of our early life and find in them the satisfactions we have been seeking, restlessly and futilely.

WE GET BACK to the vine and fig tree, the towees nest among the shrubs, the restful bench beneath the sheltering branches. We come to love the "ratatatatt" of the woodpecker, the songs of the redbird and the thrush.

It's probably too much to expect the human race to know what is best for it but it would be powerful nice and a lot of time and struggle would be saved if we could select the true values early in life. Not the least of which would be to have our own vine and fig tree and the time and sense to sit under them.

From where I sit — by Joe Marsh

Industry Looks at Our Town

Maybe you read how a group of industrial experts have decided that the small town is the place for industry—not big cities. Reasons they give are better housing, pleasanter living, and more opportunity for wholesome recreation.

Well, looking around our town I'd say that was about right. Most of us own our homes, and keep them looking nice; we enjoy each other's company: and our recreations are mostly simple outdoor sports, and in the evening a mellow glass of beer with pleasant company.

As Doc Walters says, that sort of life just naturally sets you up for work the next day . . . whether it's in office, mill, or field. And Doc should know. He works fourteen hours, but never misses his morning "constitutional" or his evening glass of beer with friends.

From where I sit, any industry could profit from being in a town where wholesome living, temperance, and friendship are the rule.

President Makes Sad Final Journey To His Mother at Her Small Cottage

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 27—(AP)—President Truman Sunday paid a last, long visit to his beloved mother before her funeral Monday.

Mrs. Martha Ellen Truman, whose 94-year-old heart quietly stopped beating Saturday, lay in a gray casket in the old-fashioned sitting-room of her small cottage here.

A few "very close friends" were admitted to pay neighborly respects to Mrs. Truman, who was clothed for her last journey in a blue dress ornamented with a dickey in a fashion decades old.

Putting aside the affairs of State completely, the son, whose mother "never thought he would be President, but he'll be a good one," gave himself over to sorrow and strict seclusion at the Summer White House in Independence last night and this morning.

Then at 9:45 a. m. (CST)—very late for the President to be getting about—the White House limousine rolled away for the 25-mile trip through rolling farm country to Grandview.

In the rear seat with the grave-faced Chief Executive was his daughter, Margaret. They were followed by a single Secret Service car.

Reporters, halted two blocks away, did not see the President enter his mother's house, the house to which he flew from Washington Saturday.

The President and Margaret spent more than two hours in the house on Feland Avenue. He shook hands with the warm friends of his mother who called.

One reporter was admitted to the porch and given permission to tell the others what he saw. He saw little—a wreath of purple and white flowers on the door, tied with a purple ribbon; a silvery metal casket, opened, a single huge cluster of red roses at its foot.

The President said he was "tired."

Returning to Independence, Mr. Truman completed arrangements for the burial, on a rolling, tree-shaded hill in the cemetery where John Anderson Truman, his father, was buried on Nov. 4, 1914.

Not more than three or four cars, carrying the Truman family, will make up the entire funeral cortege. Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross asked reporters not to follow the procession; Secret Service men will see that others do not.

The family and Mrs. Truman's physicians — Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham and Dr. Joseph W. Greene —will stand alone at the graveside, within a roped-off enclosure.

Most of the messages of condolence from heads of foreign states have gone to Washington and will be made public there, Ross said. However, Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King of Canada, sent his to Independence. It read:

"Mr. Dear President:

"You will know without words how much my thoughts are with you at this time and how sincerely I feel for you in your present bereavement. May I add that you are also in the thoughts of the Canadian people as a whole, and that you have their sympathy in fullest measure and that they too would like to have an expression of their sympathy made known to you.

"Kindest personal regards."

Mrs. Truman died of heart failure shortly before noon Saturday when her distinguished son was hardly an hour aloft. Her funeral service will be read—for the family only—by the Rev. Welborn Bowman, of the near-by Grandview Baptist Church, at 3 p. m. Monday. Burial, by her request, will be beside her husband, John A. Truman, in Kansas City's Forest Hill Cemetery.

By Mrs. Truman's wish there will be no flowers. She said they should go to "people who were alive to appreciate them." Neither will Washington's officialdom be on hand, for even friends will not be present at Monday's private sorrow of the Truman clan.

But hundreds upon hundreds of messages of condolence for the President poured into the Summer White House at Independence and the Muehlebach Hotel, where Mr. Truman's staff is housed in Kansas City. They came from foreign rulers, from Cabinet officers and from humble friends.

W. H. Little, the Mayor of Grandview, population 1,200, declared a "day of mourning" and decreed that stores and business places remain closed. Flags throughout the community were flown at half mast in respect to its most famous citizen.

But for two blocks in every direction from the little house across from a blacksmith shop the Secret Service and local authorities barred all visitors except the "close friends" admitted by family consent.

Reporters who watched the Summer White House at Independence saw no sign of life until the President and his daughter set off for Grandview, leaving Mrs. Bess Truman at home.

The President did not take his customary 6 a. m. walk along the tree-shaded streets.

Whe nthe limousine finally pulled away with Mr. Truman and Margaret, the President was wearing a light tan suit and no hat.

RICH MEMORY

Truman Inked Mother's 'Obit' Aloft in Plane

GRANDVIEW, Mo., July 27—(AP)—President Truman's brief biography of his mother, written aboard an airplane last May 17 as he flew to what he then feared would be her death bed, was released Sunday by a White House spokesman.

Written with an apparently leaky fountain pen on two sides of a sheet of note paper, the little obituary was produced entirely from memory. A simple, factual recital of the events of his mother's life, it began:

"Martha Ellen Truman, born Martha Ellen Young, Nov. 25, 1852—"

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told reporters Mr. Truman penned the biography for Ross' use in answering questions of reporters.

Although Mrs. Truman recovered and the President returned to the White House after 12 anxious days, Ross said he preserved the memorandum and intends to keep it as a token of his chief's "remarkable thoughtfulness and consideration of those around him, and also his remarkable memory."

The biography in full:

"Martha Ellen Truman, born Martha Ellen Young, Nov. 25, 1852, on Parish farm, now 36th and Prospect, Kansas City, Mo. Parents Solomon Young and Harriet Louisa Young (Gregg). Came to the farm one mile north of Grandview in 1868. Married John Anderson Truman Dec. 28, 1881. Lived in Lamar, Mo., four years after marriage. Son, Harry, born in Lamar, Mo., May 8, 1884.

"Lived in Cass County, near Harrisonville, until 1887. Son, John Vivian, born on farm near Harrisonville, April 25, 1886. Returned to farm north of Grandview, 1887. Daughter, Mary Jane, born there Aug. 12, 1889. John Truman bought house on South Chrysler Street in Independence, December, 1890. Family lived at that address until March, 1896. Bought house at 909 West Waldo, Independence. Lived there until 1903. Traded for house at 2108 Park Avenue, Kansas City, and lived there until 1905. Returned to farm north of Grandview after six months' residence in Clinton, Mo., late in 1905. Lived on farm until six years ago when she moved to Grandview. John Truman passed away November, 1914.

"Survived by two sons and daughter, six grandchildren—four sons and daughter of J. V. Truman, and one daughter of Harry, and three great-grandchildren."

A-Bomb Imparts False Sense Of Security, Vet Leader Says

America's future security is threatened by isolationism—"atomic isolationism."

Milton Richman, National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, Sunday asserted the geographical isolationism which followed World War I is being replaced by a false sense of security growing out of possession of the atomic bomb.

"No one can say we have a monopoly on brains," Richman said, adding that it is only a matter of time before other countries obtain the know-how which has put the United States ahead in the "race for atomic supremacy."

Richman warned 400 Georgia Jewish War Veterans and their guests at the final session of the Georgia Department JWV convention at the Mayfair Club here that this country's military unpreparedness and a growing "cynical defeatism" about the United Nations could lead to the horror of another World War.

The JWV leader presented Ralph McGill, Editor of The Atlanta Constitution, a plaque for McGill's efforts in fighting bigotry, particularly in connection with the Columbians. Former Gov. Ellis Arnall, who was to receive a similar award, was unable to attend.

Georgia Department officers elected for the coming year were Paul Ginsberg, of Atlanta, Commander; Abe Tennenbaum, of Savannah, Senior Vice Commander, and David Friedlander, of Atlanta, Junior Vice Commander.

Lions Clubs Study Europe Aid Plans

"We are dedicated to a generous consideration of all the peoples of the world," he said in an interview shortly after his arrival.

The 16,000 delegates here for the week-long convention represent 335,000 Lions in 6,300 clubs in every State of the Union, Hawaii and 18 North and South American countries.

850 Pastors Make Shifts, Pay Own Moving Expenses

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Conservative estimates are that some 850 preachers of different denominations in Georgia have been called upon to pack up and move to new pastorates during the past year. Some moves were for not more than one mile, while some involved 350 miles. At an average cost of $35 per move, the total outlay would be $29,750, which is considered too low an estimate. More than 90 percent of the preachers pay their own moving expenses.

ANOTHER GEORGIA FIRST

Georgia Primitive Baptists, for the first time in their history, next week will conduct at the Moultrie Spence Field a six-day Primitive Baptist Youth Fellowship Camp. The schedule of daily activities runs from 5:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m., and consists of classes in study of church history and doctrines, handcraft, singing and recreational periods.

Competent and trained leaders have been secured for each phase of the Camp's activities. Total cost for the entire six-day vacation is fixed at $13.00, according to Supervisor J. Harley Chapman, of Jacksonville.

STRATTON'S RECORD

During his pastorate of seven years at the Atlanta Calvary Methodist Church the Rev. H. C. Stratton directed the spending of $125,000 as furnished by the Church membership of 1,100. Inheriting an old $15,000 debt, funds to clear that were raised with an additional $20,000 for a church school building. Renovation of the church plant, installation of a pipe organ and chimes, and the purchase of a brick parsonage are other evidences of progress.

New members numbering 357 have been received during the seven years, while benevolent contributions have trebled, and $3,000 was given the Crusade for Christ fund. Pastor's salary was increased from $2,100 to $4,000. Rev. Stratton, now Pastor of the Gainesville First Methodist Church, attributes to the midweek prayer service the secret of the record of success. The entire church membership has cooperated under the leadership of C. E. Purcell, Chairman; C. T. Black, Chairman of Finance Committee; E. R. Harris, Treasurer; D. B. Pearson, Church School Superintendent; Med Henderson, Financial Secretary, and Marvin Seay, Secretary.

MAJOR EMPHASES

Georgia's major three church denominations—Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians—this year are giving primary emphasis to three chosen phases of work. The Baptists are promoting a South-wide effort to secure 1,000,000 Southern Baptists tithers for a period of three months, with expectation of a return of $100,000,000 for denominational co-operative work. Methodists conclude their Crusade for Christ quadrennium in attempting this year to enroll 231,849 persons in Sunday Schools, for an increase in membership of 37 percent above the present enrollment.

Total enrollment throughout the nation as sought by Methodist folk is set at 7,000,000. Georgia Presbyterians are directing effort to church extension, erecting chapels in numerous localities; evangelism through home visitation, and training camps for Presbyterian youth.

Chiang Rules Out Pact With China Communists

NANKING, July 27—(AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek told a group of visiting American editors and publishers there was "no possibility" of peace negotiations with the Chinese Communists, and inveighed in strong terms against what he called "misleading" and "unfriendly" reports about China by American correspondents.

Despite the long breakdown in peace efforts, this is apparently the flattest public statement Chiang has yet made on the subject.

The Americans, who are touring the Far East as guests of the U. S. War Department, arrived in Nanking Sunday.

"It is apparent since failure of the Marshall mission of mediation," the Chinese Government chief declared, "that the Communists are determined to continue their policy of open military rebellion and there is no possibility of resumption of peace negotiations.

"I assure you that in spite of the complications of this problem, the Chinese Government will be able to solve it—and it will not take very long."

Before meeting the Editors, he had made a speech to a conference of provincial governors, in which he said, "we must continue to struggle for existence or die." He condemned "big influential families" for not paying their taxes in kind, and said they should send their able-bodied sons to join the Army as an example to others.

Chiang told the Americans, "I am fully aware of the importance and significance of relations between the United States and China and of the presence of the Wedemeyer Mission in China."

He added that the new national constitution would become effective as planned next Dec. 25.

Chiang further told his visitors:

"I have been deeply concerned over certain United States correspondents in China, who, because of their dissatisfaction with conditions in the postwar period here, have written certain reports and articles which are not only critical of the efficiency and moral practices of the Chinese Government, but are misleading the American public to believe that the Chinese people as a whole are not respectable and do not deserve the friendship of the United States and other countries.

"The Chinese people always have been friends of the United States and grateful for the assistance of your country.

"I appeal to you publishers for co-operation in solving this problem, which is a serious obstacle in the way of Chinese-American co-operation."

While Chiang was making these comments, the Associated Press learned from a reliable source that the central executive committee of his governing party, the Kuomintang, had issued instructions to all party newspapers to stress desirability of quick clarification of American policy toward China.

This directive said further "wavering" by the United States would only benefit the Communists and might "harm the traditional friendship between the United States and China."

It said some foreign writers had fallen unwitting victims to Communist propaganda and had criticized "China's only lawful Government in a most irresponsible manner."

General Motors Recalls 115,000 After Layoff

DETROIT, July 27—(UP)—General Motors Corporation will recall 115,000 production workers Monday after a week's layoff because of a critical steel shortage, but that was the only bright spot in the turbulent auto labor scene.

Nearly 20,000 other workers were idle in strikes and related shutdowns and GM officials said another 65,000 workers faced one-week layoffs in feeder plants outside Michigan in the next three weeks.

A five-day strike of 7,500 members of the CIO Auto Workers Union at Murray Corporation of America brought a threat of steadily widening shutdowns at Ford Motor Company, where Lincoln and Mercury operations were suspended "indefinitely" Friday and 4,500 workers laid off. Ford buys 70 percent of Murray auto parts output.

A cumulative walkout of the CIO United Rubber Workers at the United States Rubber Company came to a climax Saturday with 7,500 workers on strike.

Truman Will Run And Win: Farley

SALT LAKE CITY, July 27—(AP)—James A. Farley predicted Sunday that the Democratic Party would: Nominate President Truman for the 1948 presidential race, pick a vice presidential nominee from a populous State "east of Ohio," and win the election if present economic conditions continue.

The foreign situation at the time will have considerable effect on the election, the former Postmaster General told a reporter, but the Democratic Party cause will be abetted by the abilities of Secretary of State Marshall, whom Farley described as a "strong and popular public servant."

Here on a business trip, Farley declared:

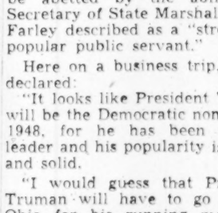

"It looks like President Truman will be the Democratic nominee in 1948, for he has been a good leader and his popularity is strong and solid.

"I would guess that President Truman will have to go east of Ohio for his running mate, because the bulk of those electoral votes must come from those more populous States."

abroad shows that for the first time in recent peacetime history career diplomats in top posts abroad far outnumber purely political appointees. Also, America's ambassadors and ministers, on the average, are younger than in any recent period.

The project abroad coincided with two similar ones at home in the State Department itself: 1—Selection of a Department high command which is about completed with a preponderance of career diplomats; 2—Streamlining the Department by amalgamation of the various secretariats, centralization of all intelligence work, and creation of a long-range planning staff.

In his first six months as Secretary, Marshall has put at rest the fears of the career diplomats who thought he might pick many former Army colleagues for high positions.

Instead, he has chosen more foreign service career officers for high positions that those men had even hoped for.

These career men are not what the public is inclined to describe as "striped pants" diplomats. They are scholarly, hard-working experts on various parts of the world who have devoted their lives to working long hours for small pay, and patiently climbing the ladder to the top.

The survey also showed that not only far more than half of United States diplomats are men who have devoted from 20 to 30 years in the foreign service, but that more than half are relatively young. Forty-nine are under 60 years of age, and 38 are under 55. Nine are only in their forties.

Three recent noncareer appointments were not "political" but were made because of exceptional qualifications for tough spots—Lewis Douglas, Ambassador to Britain; Henry Grady, first Ambassador to India, and Stanton Griffis, Ambassador to Poland. All three have had long periods of Government service.

ATTACKS

reported the victim and her mother had identified him.

Police reports reveal an attempt was made to attack an 11-year-old girl on Crew Street, but the child managed to elude the attacker.

Two other attempted attacks on white women have been reported to police in the past two weeks. A young woman, while walking late at night on Piedmont Avenue was accosted at the entrance to the park, but managed to beat off her assailant. A young woman, reporting to work in a downtown communications office late at night said the same man twice attempted to attack her after she got off a trolley at Broad and Alabama Streets. She managed to get away from him at Forsyth and Marietta by running into the Western Union telegraph office.

Last week a woman, sleeping in her home on Capitol Avenue, S. W., was awakened when an arm was thrust through an open window beside her bed. She told police she was choked and as she shook off the grip on her throat the man slashed at her with a knife, inflicting a painful cut on her ear.

There have been five Negro women attacked during the past two weeks, police reports also show.

Robert Putnam, a Negro, of a Garibaldi Street address, arrested Sunday night on suspicion of prowling, will be questioned today in connection with assault cases here, police said.

Putnam was arrested by Radio Patrolmen T. C. Lee and R. A. Boone in an alley off Georgia Avenue following a complaint from Mrs. C. J. Parnell, 169 Georgia Ave., S. E., that she had seen a Negro peering through her window.

want to see any newspapermen anyway.

"My father was never divorced," he said. "He was only separated from my mother for a while. They have been reconciled for years, unknown to the newspapers and public generally.

"My father and mother and I are just passing through town. We are going to Washington, D. C., tomorrow. Those newspaper stories about Hollywood parties are all lies. My father said so."

Later Cordes said he had told his pals a different story about the party. He said he told them a rich grandmother in suburban Glen Ellyn was footing the bill.

But, he admitted, he doesn't have a rich grandmother, either.

Thompson Coal Co. Is New GE Distributor Gas-Fired Furnaces

On July 1, Thompson Coal Company, 985 Boulevard, N. E., was appointed distributor of General Electric gas-fired warm air furnaces and boilers in Greater Atlanta. This is another milestone in the Thompson Coal Company progress. Just six years ago, this company was organized to sell coal. Subsequently, it added the sale of Winkler stokers, Fi Black home insulation and Monarch weatherstripping. The Company has enjoyed unusual success in its short business history. Due to the Company's desire to give its customers only the best of heating equipment, it surveyed the heating equipment manufacturers for the leading line of gas-fired furnaces and boilers. According to Mr. Thompson, "It became apparent from the first that only General Electric equipment would fit in with our other top quality lines." Mr. Thompson says, "The struggle was great but we were able to convince General Electric that we would give them the best of representation and we consider it an honor to represent them in our city."

In order to improve its service to its customers, the Thompson Coal Company has added F. Warren Clare, a licensed professional engineer, to its organization. Mr. Clare will be responsible for all engineering matters and his services are now available to Atlanta ing or insulation problems.

A complete line of General Electric homeowners, whatever their heating, gas-fired automatic heating equipment is now on display at the Thompson Coal Company showrooms at 985 Boulevard, N. E. Your inspection of this outstanding heating equipment is invited. The Thompson Coal Company's complete line of distinctive coal, Winkler stokers, Fi Blak rock wool insulation, Monarch weatherstripping, gas and oil floor furnaces, oil heaters, and last, but not least, General Electric gas-fired heating equipment distinguishes this Company as a leader in the automatic heating equipment market. Be sure to call them today at VE. 1171.

A Remedy for Heating Problems Offered by Simpson and Brown

In an effort to materially aid Atlantans in their heating problems, the H. J. Davis Coal Company, Inc., 731 Highland Ave., N. E., has sent to many homeowners and others interested, whom they have been serving 30 years, a letter explaining how their problems can be solved through modernization.

The letter so clearly states how the Davis Company can aid in its work of solving your heating problems, that we quote a few paragraphs from it as follows:

"We are glad to announce that our company is now handling a complete line of gas and oil-fired heating equipment. This includes oil equipment of every type for domestic, commercial and industrial needs. It also includes gas equipment of every type for domestic use.

"In order to assure our friends of experienced and qualified service, we have recently added to our staff Rudy Brown as manager of our heating department.

"With the addition of gas and oil-fired heating equipment to supplement our already complete line of popular Whiting automatic stokers, we are offering reliable heating systems, surveyed and engineered by competent sales representatives.

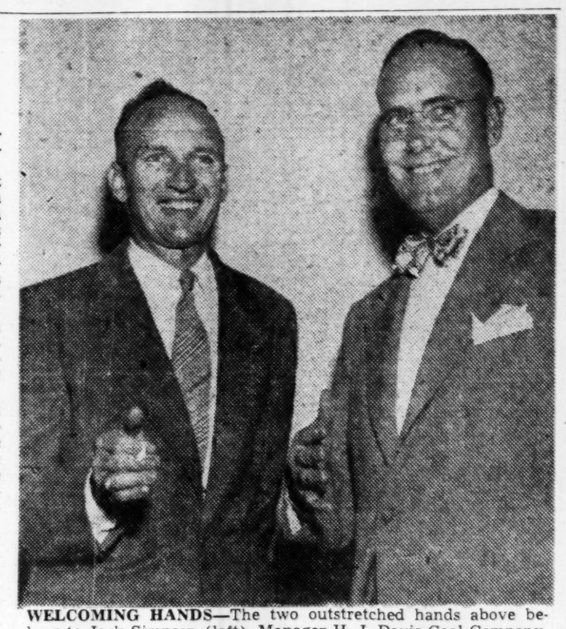

"Whether you are contemplating modernizing or altering your existing heating plant, installing a new one, or know of a friend who is, feel free to request one of our competent personnel to make a free estimate and survey of your heating plant."

With these new combinations the Davis Coal Company is now equipped to install central heating, Winter air-conditioning units, comprising oil-fired equipment from the smallest homes to the largest industrial plants. It also includes gas equipment of every type for domestic use.

In addition to acquiring this complete line of gas and oil-fired heating equipment the Davis Coal Company can install the popular Whiting automatic stoker in either small or large homes, apartments or commercial plants.

The heating equipment, including a Whiting stoker, is sold by the Davis Coal Company with NO Down Payment, with 36 monthly payments, if desired.

The Company earnestly desires to serve you effectively and suggests you call JA. 2800 for answers to your heating problems.

WELCOMING HANDS—The two outstretched hands above belong to Jack Simpson (left), Manager H. J. Davis Coal Company, and Rudy Brown, Manager of the Heating Department for that Company, extending a cordial and sincere welcome to their friends and patrons—and to the public generally—to call at their plant, 731 Highland Ave., or give them a ring, JA. 2800, when they can be of service in remedying or improving their heating problems.

Refrigeration Exchange Is Rendering Great Service to Food Dealers

Has Grown in 3 Years to Largest In the Southeast

By PRESS HUDDLESTON

From a small beginning about three years ago, Refrigeration Exchange, Inc., 237-245 South Pryor St., has grown to be one of the largest refrigerator operators—if not the largest—in the South.

In its large showrooms, which have lately been remodeled and enlarged and now cover 100 feet frontage on Pryor Street with a depth of 80 feet on Garnett Street, the concern is showing all types and manner of refrigeration products—the type of products especially adapted for grocery stores and markets, for restaurants and institutions where food is sold or served.

The Refrigeration Exchange is headed by Harry Mislow and Ed Rawls, two well-known successful businessmen—men who have been engaged in refrigeration technique for many years. They have surrounded themselves with a full and competent corps of personnel—salesmen and experts trained in refrigeration work—who can design and remodel grocery stores and restaurants and make them modern and up to the minute in every respect. Their services are at the disposal of operators of any business where food is essential, and they will be glad to inspect your place and give their aid without obligation.

As a matter of fact, the trained force of the Exchange has remodeled and made more beautiful and more serviceable approximately 50 self-service stores in Atlanta, and numerous restaurants. One of the features of their remodeling is the installation of back bars, counters and booths—things that add to the beauty and convenience of places where food is served.

The Exchange, like the men at the head of the concern, has established a wide reputation for its knowledge of laying out and remodeling kitchens and dining rooms and installing therein the very latest and finest refrigeration equipment. It represents in Georgia as distributor many national lines of refrigeration equipment and products. Some of these lines are those of Coolstream Water Coolers, Self Four-Foot Meat Display Cases, Curtis Air-Conditioning and Compressors, and others. From such lines are handled walk-in coolers, meat cases, frozen food display cases, open-style meat and dairy cases, beverage boxes, and a complete line of restaurant supplies.

"With our complete and large lines now on hand, and with additions of the most modern refrigeration products added as they appear on the market," said Mr. Mislow, "we are pleased to assure patrons that we can now serve the public more efficiently than ever before. We invite them to give us a ring, WA. 0296, or drop down and go through our large display room, where they will see many things that will convince them of our ability and readiness for service."

BIG SHOWING HERE FOR REFRIGERATION PRODUCTS—Above is the large and well-displayed showrooms (100x80 feet) of the Refrigeration Exchange, Inc., at 237-45 S. Pryor St. In it is being shown all types of refrigeration for grocery stores, markets, restaurants, institutions, etc. Contact one of their experienced salesmen, let him advise you about remodeling or making more attractive and convenient your place of business.

NEWS ABOUT GEORGIA

Compiled From Constitution State News Reports
By SAM CLARKE

Refusal of the Federal Government to sell the Naval Ordnance Plant at Milledgeville has eliminated the Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon, from the current list of prospective occupants, it was reported. The textiles firm is "interested" in buying the plant, it was understood, but William M. Weaver, purchasing agent for the Macon firm, has been informed by Rep. Carl Vinson that the plant is to be leased, not sold.

Outstanding 4-H Club members from throughout Georgia will assemble at Camp Wahsega in the Chattahoochee National Forest Aug. 4 for the twelfth annual Conservation Camp, L. R. Dunson, Assistant Club Leader for the Extension Service, announced in Athens. Dunson said 15,271 Georgia 4-H Club members participated in conservation projects last year.

Acting Gov. Thompson has accepted an invitation to address a large crowd expected to attend the barbecue at Culloden Aug. 1 sponsored by the Culloden Civic and Garden Clubs.

Approximately 1,500 Macon families are living in an estimated 1,000 substandard housing units City Building Inspector Robert A. Bollinger disclosed. Bollinger said a majority of these families testified that they have been unable to find better places to live for rental prices which they can afford.

Representing Cartersville at the State beauty pageant in Columbus Aug. 1 will be Miss Ruth Lowery. Miss Lowery was chosen "Miss Cartersville of 1947" in a field of 30 contestants in a bathing beauty and talent show sponsored by the Cartersville Junior Chamber of Commerce. The winner of the "Miss Georgia" contest will receive a scholarship and a free trip to Atlantic City to compete for the title of "Miss America."

Georgians in the News

Dr. Henry W. Schoenborn, associate professor of biological sciences at the University of Georgia at Athens, has been selected as the recipient of the annual M. G. Michael Award. The purpose of the award is to give added impetus to research. . . . Wilfred B. Smith was elected President of the Alma Lions Club. . . . Lt. Col. William C. Shure, Post Chaplain at Fort Benning since June, 1946, has left for his new assignment at Sendai, Japan. . . . Ed Murrah, former Mayor and City Commissioner, was appointed full-time secretary to the Columbus Board of Tax Review.

Just Seeing Snakes

Steve Cobb, mail carrier of Sandersville, said most postmen may "always ring twice," but he bets they wouldn't tarry that long if they were greeted by a snake.

Cobb said he had found all sorts of objects in mail boxes in the past 39 years, but when he saw a spotted snake coiled up in the box of J. L. Canidi that was too much.

He tossed a heavy mail order catalogue into the box and really took off.

News and Notes

Mrs. Asa M. Marshall, Jr., farmer and dairyman, has resigned as director of the Eatonton Co-operative Creamery. . . . Two books written and inscribed by Alexander H. Stephens in 1870 and 1872 have been added to the rare book section of the University of Georgia Library in Athens. . . . Kathryn Potts, of Ringgold, and Pat Wells, of Savannah, will attend the American Youth Foundation Camp at Shelby, Mich., the next two weeks. . . . Dr. C. L. The new pastor of the Elberton Methodist Church the Rev. C. M. Pipham, preached his first sermon there Sunday.

Facts About Farming

Peanut farmers of Washington County have become alarmed over leaf spots appearing in many sections. County Agent Sanders Mercer said in Sandersville that sulphur was the best means to combat the disease. . . . During the period from 1940 to 1945, when the value of farm machinery in Georgia was doubling, the number of hired workers decreased from nearly 100,000 to 20,000, G. I. Johnson, engineer of the Extension Service in Athens, declared. "Yet," he continued, "during the same period the value of all crops harvested by Georgians increased from $151,611,160 to $371,016,441.

. . . The first cotton bloom for 1947 in Blakely was reported by A. J. Singletary of the Singletary Farms.

Finders . . . Not Keepers!

Joseph Venson Broome, Savannah businessman, found his wallet but not until after a report had circulated that he was missing on a trip to Atlanta.

The wallet was found on James E. Johnson, an escaped convict from Clarke County who was arrested in Florida. When Broome could not be located, a report went out that he was missing and foul play feared.

Chief of Detectives John C. McCarthy said Broome told him he did not know where he lost the wallet.

French Nun Canonized; Tenth Saint This Year

VATICAN CITY, July 27—(AP)—A nineteenth century French nun who spent 40 of her 70 years at menial tasks in her convent was canonized Saint Catherine by Pope Pius XII Sunday. She was the tenth and last Roman Catholic Saint created this year.

With the canonization of Catherine LaBoure, to whom the church credited many miracles after the Virgin Mary appeared to her three times, the Pope closed the cycle of ceremonies for the year and prepared for his annual vacation at Castel Gandolfo.

The Pope fixed Dec. 31 as the new Saint's feast day.

Marshall Gets Peace Award

NEW YORK, July 27—(AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall has been named recipient of the 1947 Freedom Award for projecting a plan for European reconstruction.

Announcement of the award was made Sunday by Freedom House, an organization of citizens dedicated to peace. The 1946 winner was Bernard M. Baruch. A bronze plaque will be presented to Marshall at a dinner here Oct. 19.

Freedom House also awarded citations to the cities of Dunkirk, N. Y., and Norwalk, Conn., for "their exemplary community action which has served to instill in the individual an awareness of his responsibilities to the world community."

Early Phoenicians?

ROME, July 27—(AP)—A dispatch from Sardinia said Sunday that human bones found in a deep grotto near Cagliari were believed by archeologists to be of Phoenician origin and to date from the seventh century, B. C. This would push back two centuries the accepted date for Phoenician colonization of the Mediterranean, the dispatch said.

SO CLAIMS SOVIET CRITIC

Twain's Stuff Suppressed

MOSCOW, July 27—(AP)—A Soviet critic of American literature accused "reactionary American publishers" Sunday of deliberately suppressing certain "anti-imperialist" essays by Mark Twain.

M. Mendelson, writing in a Soviet literary newspaper, said these essays never had been included in Twain's complete works, although they were highly valued by literary critics.

Essays singled out by Mendelson were "In Defense of Gen. Funston," which appeared in 1902 in the North American Review, and "To a Human Being in Darkness." He said Twain wrote of American occupation of the Philippines and of actions against the Boxer Rebellion in China.

In New York, representatives of Harper Bros., publishers of Mark Twain's works, said they were not familiar with the essays but added: "It sounds like a preposterous charge. Mark Twain wrote a great deal never published in book form. In the case of the material that remains unpublished, it is not a question of suppression. It is a question of the literary executors of Mark Twain's estate not believing that it rates book publication."

GI Slain, Another Injured In Manila Road Ambush

MANILA, July 27—(AP)—One U. S. Army Sergeant was shot dead and another was wounded critically late Saturday night by unknown persons in the third fatal ambush within a month at the same spot on the Manila road near the Bulacan-Pampanga provincial boundary.

The driver of a jeep in which the two soldiers were riding escaped injury. All three were members of the Fourth Signal Service Group, the same as a staff sergeant who was killed and another who was wounded the night of July 21. All names were withheld by the Army.

1 of 3 Elections Lost by Unions, Survey Shows

WASHINGTON, July 27—(AP)—A National Labor Relations Board study of collective bargaining ballots in June showed Sunday that one of every three elections rejected any union at all.

The survey showed that 32 percent of the bargaining elections, or 140, were decided in favor of no union.

AFL unions won 52 percent of the month's elections in which they were involved. CIO unions won 55 percent of their balloting tests. Independent unions won in 54 percent of the elections in which they took part.

The number of elections going in favor of no union at all has been on the increase during the past year. In July, 1946, the percentage of such elections was 18.

Panels of Thought Provide the Answer

By DORIS LOCKERMAN
Woman's News Editor

Do you know all you want to know about annexation? The County Unit System? The organization of the State Democratic Party? No?

Well, don't worry. You are in fine company. The voting machine scares some of the best people in town. But there is something you can do about it, and you'd be surprised how many women have found out what it is.

You can join a study group. There's probably one in your neighborhood. Nine discussion panels are already flourishing in and about Atlanta. That pleasant buzz of voices you hear in your block fairly often may be your neighbors discussing the Marshall Plan or atomic energy. And enjoying it.

The whole trend toward discussion and study is stemming, as so many civic improvements have, from the Atlanta League of Women Voters. A short time ago the League's Mrs. Robert G. North invited a few members in for a session to train them as leaders for neighborhood discussions. The idea took fire, as it was bound to in this period of concern among women, for a better life for everyone.

At Tenth Street, Mrs. Owen Owen invited a few friends to join every other Friday at 2 p. m. at the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, 723 Piedmont Ave. In the Dellwood section, Mrs. F. Levering Neely, 2085 Dellwood Dr., N. W., inaugurated meetings at the same hour, at members' homes. Mrs. J. R. McCullough, 568 E. Wesley Rd., agreed to lead a group to meet the second and fourth Wednesdays at 10:30 a. m., at 3511 Pielmont Rd. Four others started work, keeping their members within their own wards, to simplify political questions. Now Mrs. Donald McLain, 20 Cherokee Rd.; Mrs. H. C. White, 1054 Cumberland Rd., N. W.; Mrs. Albert Heyman, 1430 N. Highland Ave., N. E.; Mrs. Ray Fromshon, 1443 Stewart Ave., S. W., Mrs. Philip Hammer, 3592 Roxboro Rd.; Mrs. Harry Boyte, 135 Avery Dr., N. E., and Mrs. P. D. Christian, Jr., Sandy Springs, have joined the list of women who have already begun groups, or plan to do it before Autumn.

There is a business woman's group operating at the League office, each first and third Monday at 8:30 p. m., under the leadership of Miss Jane Van de Vrede, of the Fifth District Nurses' Association. It is the only organization meeting at night.

There are several interesting facts about these growing panels of thought. The women do not necessarily need to be members of the League of Women Voters to participate. Whatever persuasion comes from the meetings is strictly individual reaction . . . and action. Writing Congressmen, writing editors, voting . . . all those are desired results, but they are personal and the League wants them to remain so.

No group can take action in the name of the Leage, though Mrs. Walter Paschall, Chairman of Activities, and Mrs. Stillman Williams, Chairman of Discussion Groups for the League, hope each unit will develop its own questions and suggestions for League activities.

"Our only concern now," said Mrs. Williams last week, "is to get more and more women interested. If they will only phone the League office at Walnut 6111, it will be no trouble at all to begin a group in their community."

The War Is Over, Boys

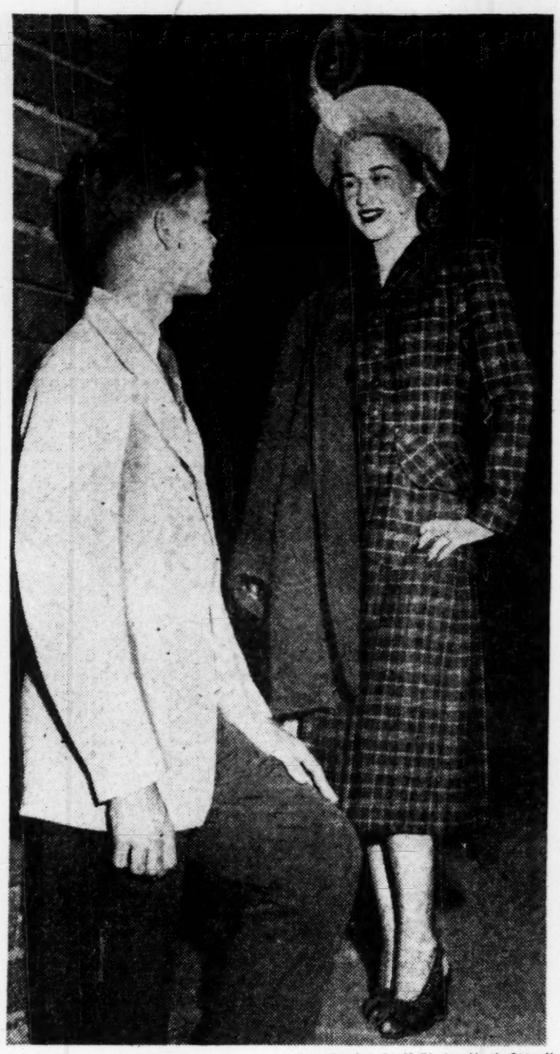

We are out of the postwar period, undoubtedly. The Men's Fashion Guild, of New York, has decreed that "tobacco tones" will be top choice for men's apparel this Fall. The new color is a mellow blend of brown and tan, which the Guild declares makes men relax! It was only a year ago, it seems, that millions of ex-servicemen were seen reacting sharply against any shade remotely suggesting Army khaki.

Money Will Do Anything

It was big news when the coin-operated laundries moved into view after the war. Now the Telecoin Corporation, of New York, has supplemented that service with an extractor, which readies a soaking wash for ironing in five minutes, a soap vendor which dispenses the right amount of powdered soap, detergent, bleach and bluing, a heat-utilizing dryer and an ironer. Obviously the heat-dryer wouldn't be required where an extractor was launched. All these improvements may be viewed tomorrow and Wednesday at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Eavesdropping, Again

THAT SUPER SUB-DEB LOOK—Miss Martha Burts, daughter of the L. Random Burts, wears a navy and white worsted plaid suit and tosses a cherry Stroock fleece greatcoat over her shoulders (these chilly evenings, you know), to meet George Fryhofer, of Waynesboro, her partner in the Graduation Fashion Show of the Atlanta Sub-Deb School. Martha's costume from J. P. Allen's.

Dads Get Money's Worth At Subdeb Fashion Show

It was bound to cost him, but there wasn't a Dad in the audience at the graduation fashion show of the Atlanta Sub-deb School that didn't get his money's worth.

Wasn't that his Sally, his Henrietta, his Linda swaying down the runway in that ever-so-long skirt, wearing lipstick and a victorious smile, and looking more and more like her mother?

The Fathers applauded violently, first for their own baby girls, then for their neighbors' teen-age charmers. But Mama, after a sweeping once-over of her parading daughter, saw fashion in the making.

For example, hoods. Hoods in green wool coats, on navy and yellow plaid reversible raincoats, on green gabardine in a suit; chin-hugging collars, in an Indian red-skin dressmaker suit with Persian lamb trim; red corduroy, in skirts, in jackets (with black corduroy slacks and plaid gingham shirt); greatcoats, meaning exactly what they say and looking likewise, and only two grownified notes, an over-the-face veil and a strapless black velvet and marquisette formal, both worn by Miss Mary Beach.

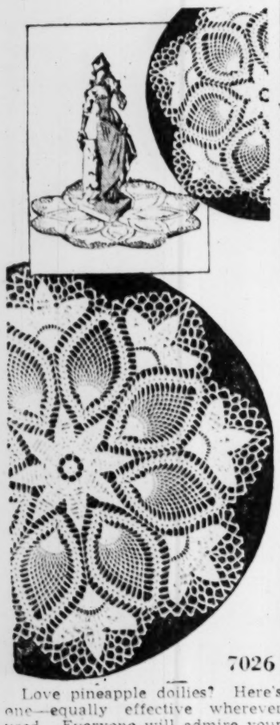

Olive Omelet

A fluffy omelet, a tossed green salad and a dessert make wonderful fare for suppers you'll be serving in the garden when the first shades of a Summer evening begin closing in. Fill the omelet with chopped ripe olives for something deliciously good.

Peach Milk Shake

Smart homemakers keep a container of sieved canned peaches in their refrigerator in readiness for summery beverages. In homemade soda or milk shake types it is a favorite ingredient. Try combining it with fresh raspberries for super special eye and appetite appeal.

The fairy play officially closed six weeks of day camping at Fernbank Forest in which 450 girls in the Scout units participated.

TROUSSEAU FOR ELIZABETH

Princess To Be Clad By London Designers

By GERALDINE HILL

LONDON, July 27—(UP)—Princess Elizabeth will select her trousseau from the Autumn collections of London's "Big Fashion Ten" instead of from her two usual pet designers for her wedding to Lt. Philip Mountbatten, court circles declare.

Since the royal bride-to-be's decision to accept the best all London designers have to offer, Worth, Angele Delanghe and Digby Morton, among others, have competed hotly with Norman Hartnell and Captain Molyneux for Elizabeth's favor.

Society is watching Elizabeth closely and there's no doubt her selections will set the fashion in Britain this Fall.

The 'Sunday Pictorial' reported the heiress presumptive will be married Saturday, Oct. 18, just 100 days after the announcement of her engagement.

The 'People' reported her fiance will return to Corsham Naval Base Monday to resume his lectures on current affairs and naval warfare. Philip accompanied the royal family on their annual Scotland vacation.

The 'People' added that the old title of Edinburgh will be revived for young Mountbatten and that he will be created Duke of Edinburgh after the October wedding.

Autumn fashion shows begin here Monday. In the past few days Molyneux has hastily imported from Paris rare silks and satins in the hope he will be picked to design Elizabeth's wedding gown.

Hartnell, Queen Elizabeth's favorite, and Molyneux created Princess Elizabeth's wardrobe for her South African tour. In fact, each of them now claims to have designed more clothes for her trip than did his rival.

Mayfair, site of most of the big fashion houses, was quiet on the eve of Autumn showings and there has been scarcely a whisper on what may be expected from the 30 or so models each house will exhibit. Only Worth, in answer to questions on skirt lengths, has admitted his tailored suits will be a good inch and one-half longer.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

YOUNG FOLKS, OLD FOLKS

I'd like some further information about the minerals and vitamins you recommend for crabby old age. (Mrs. E. W. R.)

Answer—Now, now, don't call him crabby, Ma'am. He is just suffering from malnutrition. I recommend supplementing the diet with an adequate ration of minerals and vitamins (the ones in which our refined diet is generally deficient) every day in the year, not only for old folks but for everybody. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the pamphlet "Young Folks and Old Folks."

HIDDEN HUNGER

Why am I so hungry all the time? I am on the plump side and have to watch my diet and it is very hard when you have a hungry feeling all the time. (Miss R. L. H.)

Answer—In your inexpert monkeying with your diet perhaps you are aggravating nutritional deficiency. You should attempt no dietary restrictions at all until your physician has determined whether you are training for diabetes, for example. If you are over 18 and overweight send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet "How to Lose Weight."

ASTHMA

Daughter had asthma from the age of 16 months until she was seven years old. She is now 14 and has just had a sore throat and one of the worst attacks of asthma.

(Mrs. J. A.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Asthma.

Little Variety With Coffee; Here's the Way

If you count your daily cups of coffee by algebraic methods instead of one-per-meal, it's just possible you're a molkaholic. Why not get a little variety with these cold coffee tempters?

Coffee Float

¼ Coffee Base
1 Scoop Coffee Ice Cream
1 Cup Milk

Pour coffee base into glass; add milk and stir well. Add ice cubes if desired and top with coffee ice cream. Makes 1 float.

Coffee Base

3 tablespoons Instant Coffee
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups water

Place coffee and sugar in a pitcher; add water and stir until dissolved. Makes 2 cups coffee base.

Coffee Ice Cream

1½ teaspoons plain unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold milk
1¼ cups milk
1 egg yolk
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
3½ teaspoons instant coffee
1 cup heavy cream or evaporated milk, whipped.

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold milk. Scald 1¼ cups milk. Beat egg yolk; add sugar and salt. Dissolve instant coffee in scalded milk and add hot coffee mixture slowly to egg mixture, stirring. Return mixture to top of double boiler, and cook over hot water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in gelatine until dissolved. Cool and when mixture starts to thicken, fold in whipped cream or milk. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until ice cream stiffens ½ inch from edges of tray. Remove to bowl and beat until smooth. Return to refrigerator and continue freezing. Six servings.

Wallpaper Linings

That there is a use for left-over pieces and scraps of wall paper. Utilize them for lining drawers, wrapping gift packages or decorating lamp shades, etc.

Celery Curlicues

Celery can be thinly sliced and put in a container in the refrigerator with a slice of raw potato to make the celery curl into delicate curlicues.

Yes—USED FATS Are Still Needed

says CLEMENTINE PADDLEFORD, Food Editor of This Week

Here's the answer to you women who are wondering if you should still save used fats! Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, says, "Yes . . . your used fats are still needed, since the over-all fat supply situation is little better now than it was last year." You see, many things we use require industrial fats or their products, and there aren't enough fats in the world to go around, as yet. So every pound we women of America can save will help. So please keep up the good work until we've got this situation really licked.

Crackers Take Twin Bill From Lookouts

Southeastern May Decide Who Is Tops—Hamer or Barnes

(Editor's Note: Johnny Bradberry is on vacation. During his absence columns will be written by members of The Constitution sports staff.)

By BERT PRATHER

Although it hasn't been given too much advanced play, Columbus Country Club folks are looking forward to the coming Southeastern Golf Tournament, scheduled for their course Aug. 7-10, with a great deal of interest. The reason: It will afford their idol, Georgia State Amateur Champion George Hamer, another crack at Atlanta's Tommy Barnes, the defending Southeastern king and the same young man who relieved Hamer of his Southern title in Louisville this year.

Now Mr. T. Barnes, who does most of his playing around here on the Druid Hills and East Lake courses, has long been recognized as one of the South's outstanding amateur golfers. In fact, there are many who believe that Tommy, if he had elected to join the pro circuit as did the handsome Mr. Frank Stranahan, would have been the nation's top amateur.

Tommy has been winning local and sectional titles ever since he was knee high to a duck. But after serving a stretch in Uncle Sam's Navy, Tommy came back to shoot some of the finest golf of his career. It paid off, too.

He won the Southeastern Open at Macon last year, not only beating a fine field of amateurs, but finishing strokes ahead of Otey Crisman, of Miami Beach, who collected the $1,000 first pro prize. Next Tommy journeyed down to Columbus and won the Southeastern Amateur championship. Hamer was in this field but was bumped in an early round by the amazing little Billy Key.

Hamer Was There Business prohibited Tommy's playing in the Southern Amateur at Birmingham last year, but Hamer took care of it for Georgia, whipping Charlie Harper, of Jacksonville, in the title round after the latter had sidelined the famous Mr. Cary Middlecoff, of Memphis, Tenn.

This year Tommy was determined to make a bid for the Southern crown. It's history now that he swept through the field, downing the defending champion from Columbus in the finals.

Now, with a record like this one would think that most everyone would agree that Mr. T. Barnes is about the best amateur in Dixie, and if you are a rabid Barnes fan, you could go even further and include a few other sections, but not the folks from down Columbus. They swear by the Georgia Pine.

George, it will be remembered, first came into national prominence by winning the National Intercollegiate last year while performing for the University of Georgia. To this he added the Tam O'Shanter Amateur and the aforementioned Southern Amateur crowns.

Invite To Masters All this added up to an invitation to play in the Augusta Masters and to join the United States Walker Cup squad. It is the experience gained while playing with the Cuppers in the British Amateur and the National Open that Columbusites contend has made George one of the country's outstanding amateurs. So, it is small wonder that they are hoping that the luck of the draw will place George against Tommy in the Southeastern. It should be a whale of a match.

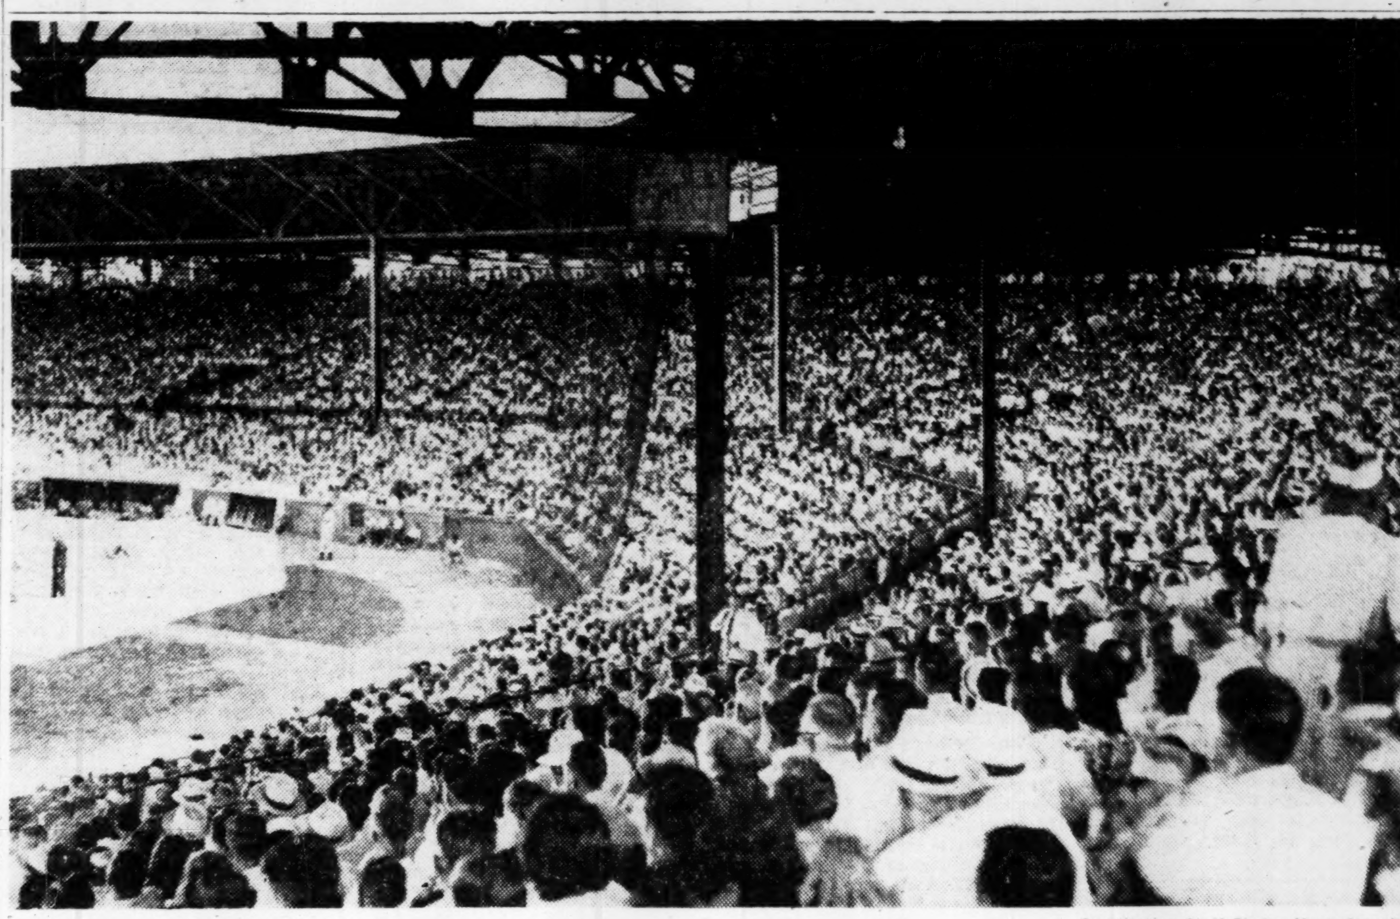

While on the subject of Columbus golf, one can hardly pass up the opportunity to say a few words about genial Fred Haskins, the CC Club Pro. Fred came to Columbus 25 years ago and has developed so many fine golfers that he has lost count of them.

Of course Hamer is one of his prize pupils, but there are many others such as 16-year-old Billy Key, twice winner of the State Junior title and now playing in the National Junior meet at Peoria, Ill; Sonny Swift, Jack Key, Jr., Johnny Dorn, Sonny Ellis and a host of others.

Fifteen Haskin-tutored golfers made the championship division of the State. This surely set some sort of a record. Fred's policy is get them in his Saturday morning classes young and keep them interested.

Fitting Victory Willfred Crossley's fine victory in the National Publinx tournament was a fitting one since the 1948 meet will be held here. It always creates more interest locally to have a hometown entry doing the defending in these big meets.

Soldiers Ready Col. Fay Ross, a member of the Board of Directors of the Georgia Men's Golf Association, is sure the big All-Army golf tournament, scheduled to open at Fort Benning's snappy course Aug. 12, will bring forth some heretofore unknown star. Officers and enlisted men from all parts of the world have entered the tournament, but Col. Ross, who is co-chairman of the meet with Col. Frank Ward, doesn't have any idea at the present time who could logically be installed as a pre-meet favorite. It stacks up as a wide-open affair right now.

FANS RALLY 'ROUND—Atlanta baseball officials have been pleasantly surprised by the fine attendance marks hung up at Ponce de Leon Park recently. Here is a scene snapped Sunday during the double-header between Atlanta and Chattanooga. A crowd of 12,318 turned out to see the fireworks.

Atlantans Win, 7-3, 15-6; Take 3d Place

By F. M. WILLIAMS

The Crackers swept a double-header from the Chattanooga Lookouts, 7 to 3 and 15 to 6, and moved into third place by a fraction of a percentage point Sunday afternoon at Ponce de Leon Park.

Attendance continued to startle baseball officials at Ponce de Leon, with 12,318 turning out for the twin bill.

Forrest Thompson won his 15th victory in the first game, never being in trouble, and Ken Gables made his debut in the second, and though he won, the portly righthander was far from impressive.

Of course he had a big lead from the very start, the Crackers scoring four times in the first inning, and he might have been coasting. He was touched for 10 hits, walked seven and hit one batter.

The Crackers gave Thompson a one-run lead in the first inning of the opener, but Gil Coan smashed his 17th homer to tie it in the third.

Then in the bottom half of the inning the Crackers shoved over two tallies when Pitcher Hal Toenes lost his control and walked three men, and from then on it was never in doubt that the Crackers would win the game.

Babe Ellis hit his fifteenth circuit clout with a man on base in the fifth inning and the Crackers added a run in the sixth and eighth to give Thompson a 7 to 1 margin going into the final frame. The Lookouts staged a brief rally in that last inning, scoring twice, but it was to no avail.

Ronnie Miller was no problem at all for the Crackers in the second game.

They rapped him for five hits and four runs in the first inning and sent him to the showers with four more tallies in the third.

Marvin Stevens, who relieved in both games, was just as easy a touch, giving up two runs in the fourth and five in the fifth

Indonesians Threaten To Destroy Rich Coffee, Rubber Plantations

BATAVIA, Java, July 27—(AP)—The Indonesians threatened Sunday to transform the rich plantations of Western Java into "roaring oceans of fire," as the Dutch announced that Netherlands troops with tank and plane support had sealed off that end of the island.

Members of the Plantation Workers Union resolved to burn 500 rubber, quinine, tea and coffee plantations in Western Java if the Dutch moved against these estates, the Indonesian News Agency, Antara, said.

A Union official was quoted as saying if these estates were set afire the Dutch would have to send more than 500,000 laborers from the Netherlands and work for more than 10 years to restore production. He added:

"Let no Dutchman nurse the illusion he will ever find his plantations and estates in an undamaged condition."

While the Dutch tightened their grip on the western end of the island, other units quickly expanded their bridgehead on the northern coast by occupying Tegal, 175 miles southeast of Batavia, a Dutch communique said. In this operation Dutch Marines went ashore and joined with Army units which had thrust overland from the west.

But the Indonesians implied the Dutch victory there was a costly one as far as the wealth of the island was concerned, adding that Dutch troops found Tegal, an important Java port, had been burned as part of the Republic's scorched-earth policy. The Indonesians claimed that heavy fighting still was going on in the neighboring city of Brebes, on the Cheribon-Tegal Road.

Both sides accused their opponents of violating principles of humane warfare. The Dutch communique said that Republican forces, counterattacking with artillery support near the village of Genoeksari in the Semarang area of the central front, had used Indonesian women as shields.

An Indonesian communique said two Dutch fighter planes, strafing the east-central front communications center of Malang, had used dum-dum bullets.

The Indonesians announced that in East Java 25 miles south of the Port of Probolinggo, American-trained Dutch Marines and Indonesian units were fighting inside the town of Leomadjang. The Indonesian report accused the Dutch of killing all Indonesians wearing colored shirts resembling those of Army uniforms. In this region the Dutch were consolidating their hold on Eastern Java which they pinched off three days ago.

Faced with the scorched-earth tactics of the Indonesians, the Dutch announced steps to get to world markets the great stores of raw materials captured by Netherlands troops.

The Netherlands Navy ordered the Java ports of Cheribon, Probolinggo and Banjoewangi, all three occupied by Dutch troops, opened to normal trade Monday. January regulations under which all ships were forced to submit to inspection by the Dutch before entering these ports now are abrogated, the announcement said.

Simultaneously the Dutch navy slammed the door shut on all sea traffic along the East Coast of Sumatra between Amphitrite Bay and Langea Bay. A blockade was declared there to halt the smuggling of arms to Republican forces, a communique said.

In the first editorial comment in the Soviet press on the Indonesian struggle, Soviet Writer A. Belskaya described the fighting as an attempt by the Dutch to "resurrect a colonial regime hateful to the people." He described the war as "open aggression against the Indonesian people" and charged that the United States and Britain were supporting the Dutch by arms, military missions and diplomatic pressure on the Indonesian republic to submit to Dutch demands.

Premier Amir Sjarifoeddin temporarily has assumed the post of foreign minister in the Republican government in addition to the Defense Ministry. A spokesman in Jogjakarta said this action was taken because Foreign Minister Hadji Agoes Salim is in the Middle East and Vice Minister Mohammed Tamsil has been arrested by the Dutch in Batavia.

According to a Jogjakarta radio broadcast Indonesian Vice President Mohammed Hatta has appealed from Sumatra for the Indonesian people to continue their resistance long enough to make it possible for a third power to intervene and halt the fighting.

In Batavia a federation of six Indonesian political parties said the members of these parties would observe instructions only from the Republican government in Jogjakarta and not from the Dutch.

The parties—Socialist, Nationalist, Islamic, Christian, Catholic and Socialist Youth Organization—claim a large proportion of the city's educated Indonesians as members.

State Troopers Drag Squam Lake For Lost Co-ed

HOLDERNESS, N. H., July 27—(AP)—State investigators knocked down two more leads Sunday but came no closer to solving the six-day-old disappearance of 20-year-old Anne Straw, Smith College senior and daughter of a Manchester, N. H., banker.

As troopers dragged Squam Lake for the fourth successive day, a state police official reported the girl's missing passport had been found. This killed off theories that she might have started for a port to renew a romantic acquaintance made during a Paris visit last Summer.

Another theory—that the brown-haired adopted daughter of H. Ellis Straw might have discovered her father's identity and gone to him—was abandoned when the family said flatly she did not know her father's name.

Police continued to receive reports that young girls resembling the missing Smith senior had been seen at various points in New England, but all efforts to follow them up met with failure.

The girl disappeared from the luxurious Straw Summer home bordering Squam Lake last Monday night. A flashlight found on a landing in front of the home suggested Anne might have gone for a nocturnal swim, but continued dragging and even an underwater search by a diver produced no clues.

One lead remained. Police still hoped to make contact with a college boy friend of Anne's, reported spending the Summer in Wyoming with a forest survey party.

Investigators said the young man, a freshman at Amherst College, had been "quite friendly" with the missing girl and "might know something."

Big Bethel Choir Hits New Heights At Pop Concert

By PAUL JONES

The famed Big Bethel Choir of 31 Negro voices attained a new high in musical achievement for itself and the Atlanta Pop Concert Series Sunday when it was featured during the fourth of these fine musical programs at the Fox Theater.

More than 5,000 persons crowded into the large auditorium to hear the choir and Albert Coleman's 50-piece orchestra and guest soloists. And they came away firmly convinced there's nothing just like the Big Bethel when it comes to songs from the heart.

The choir treated the music lovers to three spirituals and then walked off the stage amid thunderous applause. They opened with "Swing Low" and encored with "Plenty Good Ground" and "Hand Me Down My Silver Chain." Their contribution was the outstanding feature of the series thus far.

Soprano Frances Campbell and Pianist Ann Moore made the concert even more delightful with carefully selected solo pieces. Miss Campbell did Gerswin's "Summer Time" and Miss Moore received warm applause for her rendition of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor. Coleman diversified the orchestral portion with pop tunes and classics by Coward, Gershwin, De Falla and Tschaikowski.

5,600 VALIANT DEAD 'COMING HOME'

Belgians Bless GI Graves On Eve of 1st Exhumation

HENRI-CHAPELLE, Belgium, July 27—(AP)—A symbolic farewell to the fallen American soldiers of World War II was expressed Sunday in a benediction ceremony on the eve of the first exhumation project to be carried out on European soil.

Premier Paul-Henri Spaak and other Belgian dignitaries addressed a gathering of their countrymen who assembled at the military cemetery in Henri-Chapelle, where 17,319 Americans are buried.

They carried flowers to their adopted tombs and then listened while high-ranking Belgian officials expressed the nation's gratitude and affection for the American heroes.

After 5,600 of the bodies have been exhumed and shipped back to the United States, others from cemeteries scattered all over the continent will take their place, as Henri-Chapelle is destined to remain one of the 10 permanent American military cemeteries in Europe.

Prime Minister Spaak told the gathering that "the U. S. bodies buried in our soil will be taken care of with the same feelings of affection that they would receive if they were buried in the States."

Lt. Gen. C. R. Heubner, U. S. Deputy Commander of the European Theater, said the majority of the men buried at Henri-Chapelle were attached to the U. S. First Army, which stormed the Normandy beachhead on D-Day and "fought continuously thereafter for the liberation of France and Belgium, in the great battle of the Ardennes and in the drive to the Rhine."

FOOT THROTTLE FEEDS STEAM

Plans Set for Building Jet-Powered Buses, Trucks

MISHAWAKA, Ind., July 27—(INS)—The President of a leading Mishawaka manufacturing company Sunday announced plans for early production of jet-powered steam engines for buses and trucks.

The announcement was made by W. C. Miner, President of the J. and M. Manufacturing Company, who developed the new steam power-unit that will be used in the vehicles.

He said that production of the engine in limited quantities will be possible at the present J. and M. Plant, since the engine does not require large production machinery.

The new engine derives its power from a small boiler fired by a jet burner. It uses fuel oil or almost any other kind of liquid fuel, including hydrogen peroxide.

There are no gears to shift and no clutch or transmission. Motive power is controlled by a foot throttle which feeds steam to a four-cylinder engine geared directly to the rear axle.

RAW DEAL

Boy Quits Pool Sans Wardrobe

Some Atlanta youngster had to go home in the raw early Sunday morning, leaving his clothes, neatly stacked on the banks of the swimming pool at Oakland City.

Radio Patrolmen D. Wright and J. H. Langley reported they arrived at the pool about 2:30 a. m. Sunday to make a routine check and to be sure no one had stolen the pool.

As they rode up, the officers said, they discovered a beehive of activity.

Teen-aged boys were clambering out of the pool attired in the altogether, and hastily grabbing up shoes, pants and shirts just like boys had to do back in the good old days when Mama made an unexpected visit to the old swimming hole.

One youngster, the officers said, was across the pool from his clothes when the policemen pulled up.

Hastily surveying the situation, the youth went up the nearest bank and with a headlong dive into some shrubbery, he pulled the disappearing act. In the meantime, officers said, the other boys, with their clothes hastily scooped up in their arms, had scampered away into the darkness.

Police, following an investigation later Sunday, expressed the opinion the youthful nudist had reached his home without being seen.

Incidentally, officers in pointing out it is a violation of the law to swim inside the city in the nude, said the youngster could get his clothes, and the 50 cents in change found in his pockets, if he will come to police headquarters and claim the clothes.

Talmadge Says GPA Proves State Is Slighted

LOVEJOY, July 29—(AP)—Herman Talmadge charged Sunday that retention of Sid Williams as Secretary of the Georgia Press Association while he also holds a full-time State position is proof that Williams devotes "no time to the State."

Williams was suspended by GPA President Belmont Dennis, of Covington but was reinstated in Atlanta Saturday by a 6-4 vote of the Press Association's Board of Managers.

Talmadge said that Williams "evidently was doing a satisfactory job for the Georgia Press Association. He devotes his full time to the Press Association and no time to the State."

Talmadge started a controversy over Williams' dual role when he charged that Williams and two other employees of the "Capitol Office" of the State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board were "personal publicity agents and ghost writers" for Gov. M. E. Thompson at an annual expense to the State of $28,000.

Dennis suspended Williams from the GPA post because, he said, the by-laws of the Association provide that no official can engage in politics or hold a State job.

Williams, who receives $800 monthly from the two positions, was reinstated at a closed meeting of the Board Saturday. Afterwards, GPA Vice President June Norwood, of Valdosta, said there was no need to take "drastic action" because new officers would be elected at the Association convention in Savannah in two weeks.

Thompson has maintained that Williams was "performing a valuable service to the State." He was not in Atlanta Sunday and could not be reached for comment on Williams' reinstatement by the PGA.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., has said State officials would be guilty of violating the law if Williams has not devoted full-time to the State.

Train Kills Clinton Man Near Macon

Constitution State News Service.

MACON, July 27—Jack Comer, 26-year-old resident of near-by Clinton, was instantly killed Sunday when struck by a Central of Georgia Railway train in the rear of a restaurant on Forsyth Road.

Sheriff's Deputies Billy Murphey and Raymond Harshaw, who were called to the scene of the accident, reported that the victim was hit by the Central's Southbound Dixie Flyer. According to the deputies a man driving away from the restaurant by way of a drive which runs back of the eating place saw Comer's body, and reported it to a curb boy.

After an investigation the deputies learned that the Dixie Flyer had passed the restaurant at the time of the accident.

The deputies said that Comer was knocked down an embankment from the tracks, and landed on a drive a few feet from the rear door of the restaurant.

A coroner's inquest has been scheduled for 4 p. m. Monday. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Comer, of Clinton; two brothers, Joe Comer, of the U. S. Navy, and Robert Comer, of Gray; five sisters, Louise, Mary, Frances, Ann, and Wyndolyn, all of Clinton, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Tyner, of Columbus Road, Macon.

Homosexual Inmates Blamed in Prison Riot

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 27—(AP) A riot by "five homosexual prisoners who fought over their male paramours" at Boykin State Prison Farm July 13 was broken up by guards who used "considerable force," Penitentiary Supt. Wyndham Manning revealed Sunday.

"In quelling this riot it was necessary for the guards to use considerable force," Manning said. "The prisoners, on being questioned privately by me, said that leather straps were used . . ."

Manning said the straps were dry leather. He declined to identify the prisoners involved as white or Negro. Both races are housed at the farm.

"At my request," Manning's statement continued, "Dr. M. S. Kirk, prison physician at the farm, examined these men and found no cuts, abrasions, bruises or other signs of undue severity.

Tick Dusting Advised

PULLMAN, Wash.—(UP)—Light dusting with DDT offers effective, low-cost protection against the wood tick, carrier of the deadly Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Washington State College entomologists report. They recommend dusting with 10 percent DDT powder over grass, weeds and shrubs at the rate of two to four pounds an acre. For small areas such as backyards and children's playgrounds, they advised one ounce per 1,000 square feet.
